PREFACE

This is an humble attempt to study the similes in Manusmṛti. First two chapters deal respectively with the field of observation of Manu and the peculiarities of construction that have appeared in expressing the similes. Chapter three gives the translation of relevant passages from the text of Manusmṛti with the Upamānas arranged according to the Sanskrit Alphabetical order. Herein I have clearly stated the Upameya, Upamāna, Sādhāraṇa Dharma and Upamāvācaka in each simile along with full notes on the peculiarities of construction found in each. Chapter 4 brings together other Alankāras divided into two parts viz. (A) Alankāras based on Aupamya and (B) Alankāras independent of Aupamya. Although these do not form an important part of my study they have been included with a view to complete the information, about figures of speech in Manusmṛti.

In the translation of the passages from Manusmrti, I have followed Buhler. I have used the edition of Manusmrti— 1929—with the commentary of Kullūka brought out by Pandurang Javji, Proprietor, Nirnaya Sagar Press, Bombay.

I have no adequate words to thank my revered Guru Prof. H. D. Velankar under whose guidance and at whose inspiration, I have been able to complete this work. But for his words of encouragement, I would never have been able to apply myself to this work. Sincere thanks are also due to Prof G. V. Devasthali, M.A., Ph.D.—who has kindly written a Foreword to this work and to M. M. Dr. V. V. Mirashi, M.A, Ph.D., D.Lit., who has spared his valuable time for writing a few words of encouragement, which appear at the end of this book.

Rawiel from House Beech Terring

I would, of course, be failing in my duty if I forget to thank Dr. J. C. Jain, M.A., Ph.D., who has been taking active interest in this work of mine and has been kind enough to introduce moto the Publishers of this book—Messrs. Motilal Banarsidass of Delhi—who have brought out this work in good time. My thanks are also due to them.

The Author acknowledges his indebtedness to the University of Bombay for the grant-in-aid received by him from the University towards the cost of publication of this work.

FOREWORD

It gives me great pleasure to write a foreword to this valuable work of my gurubandhu Prof. Dr. M. D. Paradkar. The very fact that this work has been done under the guidance of Professor H. D. VELANKAR is, in my opinion, guarantee enough of its high standard and as such should require no foreword at all. But when my friend Dr. Paradkar expressed his desire that his work should have one and further that I should write it, I found it difficult to say 'no.' In a way I took it for a privilege and gladly undertook the task.

The present work forms about half of Dr. Paradkar's Thesis—a portion of the other half dealing with Sankarācārya's work on similar lines has appeared in the BombayUniversity Journal, VOL. XXVII, Part I, September 1956. Even a cursory perusal of the work is enough to give the reader an idea of the scheme followed by the author.

Simile, as is well-known and self-evident, has played a very significant part in human language in general and belles lettres in particular. Nor is it less important in philosophical and such other works. It not only softens the acidity and toughness of the subject matter by adding some enlivening aspect to it, but more often than not serves to make it more appealing to the reader and better impressed and ingrained into his head. A study of the similes used by an author is again sure to give us a probe into his head and heart. For similes as a general rule, spring out of the thought material that is very deeply set in one's experience and are at the same time calculated to call out similar experience in the reader.

Similes may be studied from the point of view of their structure also, taking into account each of the four parts thereof, or the omission of any one or more of them, or an admixture or confusion of divergent constructions, or any deviation—stylistic or structural—from the norm. A close observation of all such peculiarities in works belonging to some special field—say religion and philosophy—in particular is bound to be interesting no less than instructive. Hence it is that scholars of repute—both Indian as well as foreign—have directed their energies to a detailed study of, similes and Metaphors in the Rgveda', and 'Similes in the Various Family Mandalas of the Rgveda'. Similes in the Great Epic, the Mahā-Bhārata, 'Similes in Sanskrit Dramatic Literature' and 'Similes of Kālidāsa' among others have also been studied on similar lines. Dr. Paradkar's Thesis belongs to this category and certainly deserves a place of honour therein. It deals in full details and exhaustively not only with the similes occuring in the Manu-smṛti, but also some other figures either based on Simile or independent of it——these latter, of course, forming the main subject of study.

In one section Dr. Paradkar has put together all the Similes (in translation) with his own observations on them. As a result of a close study of these, he has arrived at some conclusions regarding (i) the Field of the authors' observations, and (ii) the Peculiarities of Construction, which have been set forth by him in two different sections. Alankāras based on aupamya and Alankaras independent of it have been similarly studied (Of course, cursorily) in two parts in the section at the end. The number of similes discussed in this work is 228 while the other figures discussed are Atisayokti, Apahnuti, Dīpaka, Dīṣṭānta, Nidarsanā, Rūpaka, Kāvyalinga and Sāra.

Very wide, indeed, is the field of the author's observation as revealed by the similes in the Manu-smrti. But even more interesting than this are the findings of Dr. Paradkar regarding the stylistic and structural peculiarities in that work. Thus though as a general rule the Upamāna and the Upameya are expected to agree in gender, number and case, there are cases where such an agreement is found lacking; and with his careful study of all such cases, Dr. Paradkar has shown (i) that divergence in gender between the Upamāna and the Upameya is often the result of an added Metaphor (i.e. the Upameya being couched in an expression involving a Rūpaka); (ii) that the use of one Upamāna for more Upameyas than once often results in disagreement in gender as well as number; and (iii) that case disagreement is due either to grammatical considerations, or to anakoluthic construction or to exigencies of metre.

As regard Sādhāraṇa dharma it is observed that though it is generally stated only once, it may be expressed more than once (i) when the Simile is expressed in two independent sentences, or (ii) when the construction of the Upamāna-vākya differs from that of the Upamēya-vākya or (iii) when the Sādhāraṇa dharma is not really Sādhāraṇa. In cases of the first variety, the common property is expressed by means of exact synonyms, or in some similar or slightly varying expressions, or positively as well as negatively; in the second, the statements of the common property further differ in case, tense, mood etc.; while in the third a restatement of the common property becomes an absolute necessity to make the point of the simile quite clear.

Similar interest attaches to Dr. Paradkar's findings regarding the statement of the upameya and the upamāna, viz., when they are stated in restricted expressions, and under what circumstances they are elliptic. Cases of similes with one or more of their component parts dropped as also similes expressed in a totally irregular way have also been subjected to a similar scrutiny in this work; and the reader may do well to acquaint himself with the author's findings in connection with all these aspects by going through the work itself.

It may thus be easily seen that Dr. Paradkar has in these pages set a good example to young scholars stepping into the field of research which they could do well to emulate. Varied indeed is the field for Oriental Research and the larger the number of young enthusiastic scholars attracted to it the better. The present work of Dr. Paradkar will, I hope, prove a mile stone for other fellow workers in the field and will, therefore, have a hearty welcome from all quarters as it very well deserves.

FIELD OF OBSERVATION

- I. Similes are used for introducing simplicity and clarity of expression. Every author chooses his Upamānas from his experience and hence a study of the Upamānas goes a long way in determining the powers of observation of the author as they (i.e. the Upamānas) reveal things that have caught his fancy. From this point of view it is interesting to take a note of the Upamānas used by the author of Manusmṛti.
- 2. Broadly speaking the Upamās can be divided into five categories. Some Upamās are culled from the God-world, others are to be traced to the world of Sacrifice, which was once the central theme of ancient Indian thought. Majority of the Upamās, however, as is only expected, belong to this mortal world of ours. Hence Upamās from the Nature world, Animalworld and Human-world have a lion's share.
- In the God-world, Agni (as a deity) is brought in as an Upamāna for a king who is advised to be full of luster and brilliancy like the former (2)1. Indra sending showers on earth during four months becomes the Upamana for a king who is advised to shower gifts on his kingdom at proper times (36). Deva or god once becomes the standard of comparison for the householder who does not neglect the three fires, in point of the common property of enjoying bliss in the heavenly world (108) and secondly for a husband, even though he be destitute of character, devoid of virtues and a seeker of illicit pleasures, in respect of the common property i.e. receiving worship in the case of a faithful wife (109). Yama is the Upamana for a king in point of impartial behaviour free from likes and dislikes and characterised by self-control (172). Again Yama exercising equal control over friends and foes becomes the standard of comparison for a king who also is expected to regulate his subjects impartially

Figures in brackets indicate the serial numbers of the similes in chapter 3.

- (173). Māruta or Wind (as a deity), entering all created beings (in the shape of vital airs) and moving everywhere becomes the standard of comparison for a king who is expected to enter the hearts of his subjects through his spies (185). Similarly Vāru on which depend the lives of all creatures (jantavah) has rightly become the Upamāna for the householder on which depend all the members of other āśramas (orders of life) for their existence (94). Varuna becomes the Upamāna for a king in respect of binding down the sinners; the former does it with his noose, the latter with his sceptre (180).
- 4. Similes from the Sacrificial world are few and far between. By the time Manusmṛti was composed, the sacrifice had lost its importance which it had during the days of Samhitā and the Brāhmaṇa period, particularly due to the rise of Upanisadic thought and of the two antagonistic systems namely Jainism and Buddhism. Yet sacrificial similes are not totally absent. Thus a Brāhmana, learned or not learned, is compared to sacrificial fire sanctified or not sanctified in point of being a great deity all the same (1) Kāma which grows all the more, instead of being extinguished by its enjoyment is rightly compared to sacrificial fire (kṛṣṇavartman) which also blazes merrily and is never extinguished by clarified butter and other offerings i.e. havis (3). Aghamarşana sükta is compared to the Asvamedha sacrifice in point of being efficacious in removing all sins (20). Non-metallic and unbroken vessels (pātras) are likened to Camasa-cups in sacrifice as both are cleaned with water (84). The study of the three vedas has become the Upamana for Dharmaśāstra i.e. its study in point of being the cause of obtaining the heavenly world (102).
- 5. Looking at the Animal-world, it can be safely said that the author is a very careful observer of the habits of animals, birds and insects. Here the cow often occurs as an Upamāna.
- 6. Thus the cow belonging to others occurs as an Upamāna for others' wives in respect of the inability of the begetter in obtaining the progeny (73). The cow is also chosen as an Upamāna for unrighteousness (adharma) in point of being fruitful to a person not at once but after an amount of time. If the word gauh is here understood as a milch cow or a full-grown bull, as does Kullūka, the Upamā would be based on Vaidharmya (74). A blind cow is chosen as the Upamāna for Sambhojanīdakṣiṇā as both remain confined to the place where they exist without making progress (75), and a cow in mire rightly becomes the standard of comparison for the kingdom of a monarch where a Śūdra explains the law, in respect of sinking or perishing (76). Once an ignorant person accepting even a small gift is said to sink (perish) like a cow in the deep mire (78). A cow in case of another cow is compared in point of fruitlessness of acts for spiritual advantage performed by a brahmin who has not studied the Vedas (77).

- 7. She-goats (9), ewes (18), mares (21), female camels (46) and buffallo-cows (162) belonging to others occur as Upamanas for others' wives in respect of the inability of the begetter in obtaining the progeny. A serpent with its slough occurs as the Upamana twice. Once the twice-born respecting the three Vyāhrtis a thousand times and hence being free from sin (23) and secondly the man who confesses his guilt and hence is free from demerit (24) is compared to a serpent freed from its slough. The bull occurs as the secondary Upamana for aksetrin for which see under seed (bija) in Sec. 20 no. 149 below. As a tortoise hides its limbs, so is a king advised to secure the members of his government from treachery (56). Vaidharmyena Upamā occurs when a person who does not eat meat by disregarding rules is compared with a piśāca who eats it (133). The ants gradually raising an anthill supply a very appropriate Upamāna for a person slowly accumulating spiritual merit (134). The lives of living creatures are brought in comparison with the vital airs of kings and tormenting the body which puts an end to the lives of the former serves as the Upamāna for oppressing the kingdom which also destroys the vital airs i.e. lives of the latter (140). A king is said to be on par with a heron in point of planning the undertakings (144), with a wolf in respect of snatching the prey (193) with a hare in point of doubling in retreat (202) and with a lion in respect. of showing valour (216).
 - 8. The Brāhmana who with a downcast look and cruel disposition, is dishonest, falsely gentle and intent upon attaining his own ends is compared to a heron in point of behaviour (145 and 145A). Similarly, the Brāhmaņa who is a hypocrite, a deceiver, a detractor of merits, is ever covetous, intent on doing injury, and is one who displays the flag of virtue is likened to a cat in respect of behaviour (148). If the king were not to inflict punishment on those who deserve it, the weaker ones would be roasted by the strong like fish on spike or like weaker fish devoured by the strong fish in water (158). Fish with bones occur as the subsidiary Upamana with the blind man for which see Sec. 13 no. 11 below. A trussed up deer (carmamaya mṛga) (167) and the wooden elephant (kāṣṭhamaya hastin) (228) aptly become the standards of comparison for a brahmin who does not study, in respect of 'the want of substantiality.' The dear occurs as a subsidiary Upamana for duties (of a king) for which see Sec. 13 no. 22 below. As enemies do not hurt animals (mrga) sheltered by caves or fortresses, so the foes do not harm the king who has taken refuge in his fort (169). The king who is advised to (gradually) accept taxes little by little i.e. very moderately, from his kingdom is properly compared once with a calf (178), secondly with a leech (189) and thirdly with a bee (209) accepting their food bit by bit. The bird (śakuni) leaving the tree (vṛkṣa) occurs as an Upamāna for an ascetic leaving his body without any attachment (197). The swan (225) and the elephant (vāraņa 227) are chosen as the appropriate Upamānas for a woman in respect of a graceful gait.

- g. Casting a glance at the similes in the Human World, we find that here also the observation of the poet is very keen and covers a wide field. Here Guru, a thief and a Sūdra are often introduced for comparison.
- 10. Thus the Guru becomes the Upamāna for the teacher's teacher (62), for superiors, sons of the teacher that are born of wives of equal caste and venerable relatives of the teacher (63) as well as for a learned and virtuous son of the teacher, the wives of the teacher and a blood relative (sapinda) of the teacher (66) in respect of being treated with great reverence. Being highly respect-worthy forms the common property between Guru, the Upamāna and the teacher's son imparting instruction, the Upameya (64). Respectability is mentioned as the common property between the Upamāna Guru and the Upameya namely the teacher's wives belonging to the same class (65). Guru is the Upamāna used for a more powerful king who is recommended to be served by a weak king whose disloyal subjects as well as his foe's army are expected to be kept under check by him (67). The nivoga being over, the person appointed for it in case of the widow has to treat her like a daughter-in-law (223) and the widow has to treat him like the father-in-law i.e. guru (68).

- 11. A thief (caura) is introduced as an Upamāna for a driver who kills a man under his chariot, in respect of sin and punishment (87) and for a person who sells another man's articles without his consent, in point of the infliction of punishment (88). Similarly a thief (caura) is chosen as the Upamāna for the person who does not return a deposit as well as he who demands what he never deposited (89), for persons appointed to guard provinces and vassals who remain neutral in attacks by robbers and the like (90) as well as for those individuals who receive stolen goods and those who offer fire, food, arms and shelter to thieves (91), in respect of punishment. A Brāhmaṇa seeking to obtain wealth by teaching or sacrificing for a thief is deservedly compared to a thief (stena) himself, as both become sharers of sin (92).
- 12. Sūdra is the Upamāna for a Brāhmaṇa who does not know the form of returning a salutation, in point of being unfit for being saluted by a learned man (203). All brahmins who are cattle-breeders, traders, mechanics, actors, singers, menial servants and usurers are compared with a Sūdra in point of degradation or low status (204). In one case, the Vaisya and Kṣatriya or Pārthiva who commit adultery with a Brāhmaṇa woman are compared with a Sūdra in respect of severe punishment in the form of being burnt in a fire made of dry grass (205). Sūdra is also offered as the Upamāna for that Brāhmaṇa who neither worships in the morning nor in the evening, in respect of being excluded from all duties and sacred rights of a twice-born one i.e. dwija (206). On one occasion, a Sūdra begetting on a Brāh-mana female a person excluded from the Aryan fold (bāhya), is offered as the Upamāna for the Bāhya himself getting a Bāhyatara person from a female belonging to the four castes (154).

13. Gifts given to an ignorant man (10) and a eununch in case of women (210) are compared in point of fruitlessness of acts for spiritual advantage performed by an ignorant brahmin who has not studied the Vedas. A blind man eating fish with bones is used as an Upamāna for a liar who speaks falsehoods, in point of evil consequences(11). Arundhatī occurs as a standard of comparison for a woman who remains faithful to her husband as both are not required to leave the Bhartrloka at any stage (17). A hunter following the track of the wounded deer by the drops of its blood is appropriately used as an Upamana for a king who follows his duties with the help of inferences (22). One's own self becomes the Upamana for a son (26) and the latter (son) becomes the standard of comparison for a daughter (135) in respect of inheritance to wealth. Similarly a legitimate (aurasa) son rightly becomes the standard of comparison for a son begotten on an appointed female in respect of inheritance to property (53). An Anarya having appearance of an Aryan is brought in comparison with a person who does not belong to any caste and is born of impure origin, as both can be known by their actions (34). A weeder plucking up weeds and preserving the corn is appropriately brought in as an Upamana for a king who is expected to destroy his opponents and protect his kingdom (54). The wife of the teacher becomes the standard of comparison for the sister of the mother, the maternal aunt, the mother-in-law and the sister of the father, in respect of receiving honour (70) as well as in point of respectability (72). The violation of Guru's bed (gurutalpa) is chosen as an Upamana for conjugal relation with sisters by the same mother, with maidens and females belonging to lowest caste as well as with wives of a friend or a son, in respect of pāpāvahatva (71); a wise man who should not explain unless he is asked and should not answer if asked improperly, even though he knows, is compared with an idiot in point of behaviour (93). Slave-girls (dāsī) are brought in comparison with others' wives as in case of both the begetter does not obtain the offspring (106). The twice-born men (dvijāti) who are constantly sanctified by sacrifices become the Upamāna for kings constantly sanctified or purified by checking or controlling the wicked and favouring or protecting the good (111). Like a servant (bhṛtaka) waiting for his wages (nirdeśa) an ascetic, neither desirous of living nor of dying, should wait for his appointed time (123).

- 14. The eldest brother is compared with the father and the younger (lit. remaining) brothers are advised to live under him (like sons) (128). A king should behave towards his subjects like a father (129). The eldest brother behaving like the eldest, is to be respected or honoured like the father (130) or the mother (164). As a father protects his own son, so is a king asked to protect and provide for a Śrotriya or learned Brahmana, after having ascertained the ability of the latter (131). Like a father protecting his sons, the eldest brother is asked to protect or support his younger brothers (129) and the latter are also advised to behave towards him like sons (136). The eldest brother who, however, does not behave like the eldest is to be treated like an ordinary relative (146). The son of a son i.e. grandson is brought in as an Upamana for the son of a daughter, as both save a person in the next world (139). The mother is given as the Upamana for the sister of one's father and of one's mother as well as of one's elder sister, in respect of honour to be done to them (163).
- 15. A dead person (preta) is offered as the Upamāna for an outcaste (or a patita) in respect of the breaking of a pitcher filled with water, indicating his total severence from all relations (142). A virtuous wife remaining faithful to the husband after the death is said to obtain the heavenly world even without a son like the Ancient Celibates (152). A person who foolishly causes religious duties to be performed by wives of lower caste, even when his wife of the same caste is alive is compared with a brāhmanacandāla i.e. a candāla begotten on a brāhmana woman by a Śūdra in point of being equally despicable (155). A charioteer who tries to control his horses serves as a befitting Upamāna for a person who is asked to restrain his senses that run riot among sensual objects (171). A vipra i.e. one of the brāhmaņa guests becomes the Upamāna for one's own father in respect of being fed at the funeral sacrifice (190). Vaiśyas are brought in comparison with Śūdras as the same mode of purification is common to both (198). In one case, men who have committed crimes and have been duly punished are said to go to heaven like meritorious persons (218).

- is 16. In the Nature-World, as is quite expected in a work like Manusmrti which professes to teach rules of conduct and the like, Upamānas or standards of comparison like fire, the sun and water should figure prominently.
- 17. Thus fire very commonly occurs as the Upamāna. A Brāhmaṇa is compared to fire (jvalana) in point of being free from all taints or being naturally pure (according to Buhler) (4). The same common property with a different emphasis is used when Brāhmaṇas not being impure even after being engaged in evil pursuits are compared to fire (pāvaka) which is also not soiled though found in creamation grounds (5). Fire (valni) burning the fuel with its lustre becomes the standard of comparison for a knower of Vedas destroying all sin by (the fire of) his knowledge (6). Similarly fire burning trees (druma) even though wet, becomes a befitting Upamāna for a Vedajña burning all taint of his soul arising out of evil deeds (7). An ignorant vipra is compared with trnāgni i.e. fire made of grass in point of dying out soon i.e. becoming useless (97).
- 18. The sun (āditya) once becomes the Upamāna for a king in point of dazzling the eyes and the mind (by this lustre). (27) and secondly (this time sahasrāmsu) for the Universal Egg in respect of brilliancy (prabhā) (29). The sun (āditya) sucking up water (toya) with its rays becomes a standard of comparison for a king who is advised to elicit taxes from his kingdom (28).
- 19. Water has become the standard of comparison several times. It has already occurred with the sun and its rays in Sec. 18 above. In point of being free from taints or being pure by nature (according to Buhler) it i.e. water (ambu) becomes the Upamāna for Brāhmanas (40). Water (udaka) trickling out of the foot of a skin serves as an appropriate Upamāna for the Prajñā or intelligence of a person which also slips away due to the misbehaviour of even one of his senses (39). The fame of a king who behaves in the right manner spreading in the world rightly compared to a drop of oil spreading in water (ambahs) (99) and that very fame diminishing in the world on account of his improper behaviour is likened to a drop of ghee going down in water (ambhas) (81). Once it occurs along with nara where a man digging the ground with a spade and obtaining water (vāri) is brought in as an Upamāna for an obedient Brahmacārin obtaining Vidyā from his teacher by service (120).

20. Aparataksa and Pūrvapaksa occur as the Upamāna for the Aparahnna and Purvahnna as in both the former excels the latter and hence is preferable to it for a Śrāddha (12). Amṛta and visa are brought in comparison with insult (13) and honour (191) respectively, as a Brāhmaṇa is expected to long for the former and turn away from the latter. A stone-boat (asmaplava) in water (ambhasi) once occurs as an Upamāna for a Brāhmana who neither performs austerities, nor studies Vedas and yet longs for a gift, as both ultimately sink or perish (19). Secondly the stone-boat (aupala-plave) which drowns a man trying to cross with its help, becomes the appropriate Upamana for the ignorant receiver of a gift who is responsible for the spiritual fall of an ignorant giver (143). The sky (ākāśa) which is not tainted by mud serves as an Upamāna for a person who is not tainted by sin even if he, in life's peril, accepts food from any person whatsoever (25). A Brāhmana accepting out of greed a gift, great or small, is likened to an unbaked clay-vessel (āmapātra) in water, as both quickly perish (33). The arrow (isu) and the wound serve as a double Upamana for bija and paraparigraha i.e. another's wife where the bijakseta of a man upon another's wife after the bījakṣepa of the legitimate husband is declared to be as useless as the throwing of an arrow at the wound of a deer which is already wounded (37). Subsisting on begged food on the part of a student is compared with fasting (upavāsa) in point of bringing equal merit to the person who performs or undertakes it (45). Vidyā which should not be bestowed on a pupil without merit or money is aptly compared to a good seed, (subham bija) which should not be sown on a barren soil (ūṣara) (47). The son of an Ārya by an Āryan woman being worthy of all sacraments is compared to a good seed (subija) in a good soil (suksetra) prospering extremely well in the form of a sprout (219). In one place the giver of sacrificial food to an ignorant Vipra is aptly likened to a sower (vaptr) sowing seed on a barren soil (irina), as the activity of both yields no reward (151). Once the bija of an aksetrin (one having no wife) sown on another's wife is compared to the dropped seed or bija of a bull (ārsabham bija) sown on cows belonging to others, in point of being fruitless to the sower (149). The corporeal beings resuming (in new births) their respective kinds of action (prescribed by the creator) are compared to seasons obtaining their respective characteristics of their own accord at the change of each season (49). Dead body is said to resemble a log of wood (55) and a clod of clay (176) in point of being abandoned as useless. A clod of clay (losta) dissolving in a great lake (mahāhṛda) is used as an Upamāna for evil deeds melting under the influence of the triple Veda (161).

21. Houses cursed by female relations call comparison to houses affected by kṛtyā in respect of the common property i.e. bringing about ruin (58). Silken cloth (kşauma) is used as an Upamana for conch-shells, horns, bones and ivory on account of the common property of being purified by a mixture of cow's urine and water (60). The earth (gauh) which yields its product only after a good deal of work upon it is brought in as the standard of comparison for unrighteousness which also produces its fruit after an amount of time and not at once (79). The earth (dharā) also becomes the Upamāna for a king in point of supporting all creatures equally (112). In one case, land (bhūmi) has become the Upamana for water, carnal enjoyment of women, jewels in water as well as those made of stones as false evidence or speech in case of all these leads to the same disastrous consequences (156). A planet (graha) standing supreme among stars (naksatra) is brought in comparison with the supervisor (sarvārthacintaka) appointed by a king lording over the subordinate (80). All created beings are shown to resemble the wheel in being turned round and round continuously by the Lord (82). Skins and objects made of split cane are compared to clothes (caila) (86) and vegetables, roots and fruits are likened to grain (114) in point of being cleansed with water etc. The moon giving delight to men is given as the Upamana for a king giving delight to his subjects (83). The sevenfold kingdom is shown to resemble the triple staff of an ascetic as in case of both no single part is more important than the other, all being equally important (101). An ignorant householder (of course a Brāhmaṇa) accepting gold, land, cow, etc. stands on par with a piece of wood (daru) which is reduced to ashes (by contact with fire) and so turns out to be useless (105). A tree (druma) that is being watered well (sicyamāna) becomes the Upamāna for the nation of a king protected by him in point of growth and prosperity (194). A tree becomes the subsidiary Upamana with fire which can be seen under fire see Sec. 17 above. A tree (vṛkṣa) leaving the bank of a river as well as a bird (śakuni) leaving the tree (196) are offered as the standards of comparison for an ascetic leaving his body and becoming free from attachment. Impurities of metallic ores (dhātu) which are burnt on account of being melted in a blast become the standard of comparison for taints of the senses or organs which also are destroyed through the control of breath (113).

22. Rivers, small and great (nadīnadāḥ) finding a resting place in the ocean (sāgara) supply the Upamāna for all members of other orders of life (āśramas) finding protection in a householder (119). A river (nimnagā) united with the ocean (samudra) is the standard of comparison for a wife united with her husband, as in case of both the former assumes the qualities of the latter (212). Rivers (sindhavaḥ) running towards the ocean (samudra) again become the Upamāna for the subjects turning towards i.e. following that king who subdues his passions and decides the affairs according to law (213). Killing a brāhmaṇa becomes the Upamāna for falsely attributing a high birth to oneself, giving information to king (regarding a crime) and falsely accusing a teacher (153) while stealing gold is chosen as the Upamāna for stealing a deposit, a horse, silver, land, men, diamonds and gems (175). In one place voluntary neglect of sacred fires on the part of an Agnihotrin is said to resemble the killing of a warrior (192), while in another, forgetting the Veda, reviling the Vedas, giving a false witness, slaying a friend, eating forbidden food and swallowing substances unfit for food are declared to be on par with drinking wine (221). In all these cases the common property is the same namely pāpāvahatva.

PECULIARITIES OF CONSTRUCTION OF THE SIMILIES

Manusmṛti is primarily a work on Dharmaśāstra. Hence the author is not much interested in expressing his similes in the usual form accepted in Poetics. Consequently peculiarities of construction figure prominently in the work.

 Majority of the Upamās contain single Upamānas. These are 176 in number. Out of these seven are Malopamas. In 46 Upamās, a double Upamāna is present. Among these instances of Mālopamā are 3. Some Upamās contain a triple Upamāna also. These are 5 in number. In No. 61 vahni, edhas and tejas are given as the Upamānas for vedavit, pāpa and jñānāgni respectively. The sādhāraņa dharma is dahana. For the disagreement in gender and the sādhāraṇa dharma with slight variation see sections 4 and 10 respectively. In No. 22, asṛkpāta, migayu and miga are the standards of comparison for anumana, nipati and dharma respectively. Here the sādhāraṇa dharma is padanayana. For the twice mention of sādhārana dharma see section 10 and for the sāmānya-viśeṣa-bhāva between the Upameya and the Upamana see section 15 below. In No. 54 nrpa, paripanthin and rāṣṭra are compared to nirdātā, kakṣa and dhānya respectively in respect of uddhṛṭya rakṣaṇam, which is the sādhārana dharma. For the disagreement in gender and number see section 3 below. In 151, vaptā, bīja and īriņa are brought in correspondence with data, havis and anrea vipra respectively in point of na labhate phalam which is the common property, For the disagreement in case refer to section 7. In No. 154, bāhya, cāturvarnya and bāhyatara are likened to śūdra, brāhmaṇī and bāhya in respect of prasūyate which is the sādhāraņa dharma. For the disagreement in gender see section 4 below. No. 28 is the solitary instance of Upamā containing a quadruple Upamāna. Here āditya, toya, raśmin and samudra (lupta) are brought in as standards of comparison for nṛpa, kara (tax), adhikārin (lupta) and rāṣṭra respectively. The sādhāraṇa dharma is haraṇa or acceptance. For the disagreement in gender see section 4 below. For the restrictive adjective in the Upamāna-vākya see section 14 below. For the lopa in both the Vākyas in this Upamā see section 16 below.

- 2. The words expressive of Upamā are generally yathātathā and iva. In No. 5 evam is used for expressing Upamā and the antecedent yathā is dropped. This antecedent is dropped in No. 149 also and tathā is used. In No. 11 iva is irregularly used for yathā. In Nos. 57 and 197 two pairs of Upamānas namely vrksa and nadīkūla as well as śakuni and vrksa are given for the double Upameya yati and his deha. As this is done with two different setences, yathā is repeated twice. In the irregularly expressed Upamā where carmamaya mṛga (167) and kāṣṭhamaya hastin (228) are brought in comparison to anadhīyāna vipra, the poet being influenced by the word 'te' in 'd' uses yasca instead of tathā for emphasizing the Upameya. When the usual order of the Upamana and Upameya is inverted, tatha, which should be mentioned with the Upameya is generally dropped. This happens in Nos. 53, 67, 123, 152 and 217 in view of the Upameyavākya preceding the Upamāna-vākya. At times iva, the Upamāvācaka comes after the adjective of the Upamāna as in No. 34 where iva comes after the adjective aryar upa of the Upamana nara which is to be taken twice i.e. both with the Upameyavākya and the Upamāna-vākya. This happens in No. 58 also where iva comes after the adjective krtyāhatāni of the Upamāna gehāni which is to be supplied from the first line of the verse.
- 3. Disagreement in either of the two namely gender or number or in both is very common in Manusmṛti. There is disagreement in gender as well as number between te i.e. viprāḥ and ambu (40), anumānena and asṣkpātaiḥ (22), kakṣam and paripanthinaḥ (54), savarṇāḥ guruyoṣitaḥ and guru (65), pāpānam nigraheṇa and sādhūnām sangraheṇa with ijvābhiḥ (1111), prākaraṇika (gṛhastha) and puttikāḥ (134), sādhvī strī and brahmacāriṇaḥ (152) abjeṣu aśmamayeṣu ratneṣu and bhūmi (156) and prajāḥ and priyadveṣyau (173).

- 4. Disagreement in gender obtains between the subordinate Upameya jñānāgninā, and the corresponding Upamāna tejasā in No.6, on account of the Rupaka jñānāgninā, which otherwise would have been jñānena. This kind of disagreement (i.e. in gender) is also very common in Manusmrti. Thus it exists between anreah viprah and śrautasmārta karman (lupta) with dānam and ajñah respectively (10), aśvamedha and aghamarsanam sūktam (20) enas and tvac (23), adharma and tvac (24) jivitātyayamāpannaḥ and pāpam and ākāśam and pańka respectively (25), kara and toyam as well as rāṣṭram and samudra(lupta) (28) haimam aṇḍam and sahasrāmśu (29), lobhātpratigrahakrt vipra and ambhasi āmapātram (33), bijam and paraparigraha with isu and kham respectively (37), prajñā and indriyam with udakam and drtipāda respectively (39), bhaikṣeṇa vṛtti and upavāsa(45), vidyā and śubham bījām (47), (yateḥ) deha and (nadī-) kūlam (57), jāmiśāpa and kṛtyā (58), adharma and gauḥ [cow (74), earth (79)], rāṣṭram and panke gauh (76), anrca vipra and śrauta-smārta karman (lupta) with gauh and gauh (77) te sarve i.e. rājapurusāh and naksatrāni (80), nrpateh yasas and loka with ghrtabindu and ambhas (81) as well as tailabindu and ambhas respectively (99) prakitayalı (subjects) and mānavāli (83), ataijasāni nirvraņāni pātrāņi and camasāḥ (84), saptāngam rājyam and tridaṇḍaḥ (101), rājan and dharā (112) indriyāni and dhātavaḥ (113), gurugatā vidyā and vāri (120), duhitā and putra (135), cāturvarnya and brāhmanī where cāturvarnya is used for want of a suitable feminine form (154), indriyāņi and vājinaḥ (171), karāḥ (tax) and ādyam (178, 189 and 209) kāmakārataḥ agnīnāmapavedha and vīrahatyā (192), rāstram and sicyamāna druma (194) śrautasmārta karman (lupta) and strī (210) āryāyām and suksetre (219).
- 5. Disagreement in number only is found in te i.e. viprāḥ and jvalana i.e. agni (4), doṣam and drumān (7), pitaraḥ and vāyu (183) and ubhau i.e. vaiśyapārthivau and śūdra (205).
- 6. Comparison of many Upameyas with a single Upamāna results in disagreement in either number or gender or in both. Disagreement in number exists between śreyāmsaḥ, āryāḥ guruputrāḥ, guroḥ svabāndhavāḥ and guru (63), carmaṇi vaidalāni with cailam (86), rakṣādhikṛtaḥ (narāḥ) sāmantāḥ and caura (90), agnidaḥ, bhaktadaḥ, śastrāvakāśadaḥ, samnidhātaraḥ and caura (91), and śākāni, mūlāni, phalāni and dhānyam (114). At times such a comparison results in disagreement in gender also as is seen in No. 153 where all the Upameyas namely samutkarṣe anṛtam, rājagāmi paisunam and guroḥ alīkanirbandhaḥ differ in gender from the Upamāna brahmahatyā. In No. 156, strīnām bhogaḥ and maithunam in gender from bhūmi, the Upamāna. The same happens in No. 221 where the Upameyas namely brahmojjhatā, suhṛdvadhaḥ and garhitānādyayoḥ jagdhiḥ differ from the Upamāna surāpānam. This way of comparing many Upameyas with a single Upamāna has once given rise to disagreement in gender as well as in number as is seen between one of the Upameyas namely abjeṣu aśmamayeṣu ratneṣu and the Upamāna bhūmi (156).

- 7. Disagreement in case is also conspicuous by its presence. In No. 78, the correspondence of case between svalbaka pratigraha, and panka cannot be maintained on account of the two meanings, primary, and secondary of sīdati which is the sādhārana dharma. Its secondary meaning (going with pratigraha) namely failure requires the instrumental while the primary meaning (going with panka) stands in need of the locative. In No. 83, the Upameya yasmin is in the locative and the Upamana candram is in the accusative due to the correspondence of the expression candram dṛṣṭvā in the Upamāna-vākya with yasmin in the Upameya vākya, which ultimately means yam dṛṣṭvā. No. 143 is an irregularly expressed Upamā where ignorant dātā and ignorant praticchaka are compared to udake taran (nara) and aupala plava. Disagreement in case exists between the Upameya praticchaka which is in the nominative and the corresponding Upamāna aupala plava which is in the instrumental. This is due to the fact that the double Upameya is expressed with a dvandva in datrpraticcakau. For the suggestion contained in the Upama see section 14. In No. 151 anree (caturthi) havirdana is compared to îrine (saptamī) bijavapana. Here the disagreement is due to the roots connected with the two namely da and vap which govern the dative and the locative respectively.
- 8. Change in construction of the Upamāna-vākya and the Upameya-vākya inevitably results in disagreement in case between the Upameya and the Upamāna. In No. 173, yama controlling priyadve; yau is brought in comparison with the king or vājan who is advised to control his subjects i.e. prajāḥ. Here Yama, the Upamana is in the nominative and rajan the Upameya is in the instrumental. Similarly in Nos. 178, 189 and 209 valsa and ādya, vāryokas and ādya and satpada and ādya are brought in comparison with rājan and kara (tax) in point of alpādana or alpagrahana. Here also the Upamānas namely vatsa, vāryokas and satpada are in the nominative while the Upameya rājan is in the instrumental. Disagreement also obtains between karāh which is in the nominative and the corresponding Upamāna ādyam which is put in the accusative case. The same is true of No. 185 where māruta is brought in comparison with rājan in point of pravišya samcāra, which is the sādhāraṇa dharma. Here also the Upamāna māruta is in the nominative while the Upameya rājan is in the instrumental. In all these cases, the Upameya-vākya is in the passive construction and the Upamana-vakya in the active. No. 180 offers a case opposite to this putting the Upamanavākya in the passive and the Upameya-vākya in the active. Here rājan is compared to Varuna in point of pāpānām nigraha. Because of the construction referred to above, the Upamana Varuṇa here is put in the instrumental and the Upameya rājan in the nominative.

9. This leads us to disagreement in respect of both case and gender. In No. 23, dvija and enas are compared to ahi and tvac in point of vimucyate, which is the sādhārana dharma; enas is neuter and tvac is feminine. Here enasah is put in the ablative and tvacā in the instrumental. This is due to the consideration of metre as tvacah, would have disturbed it by causing one letter more. It is also possible to regard the Sandhi tvacevāhih as an irregular Sandhi of tvacah iva—tvacā iva and then double Sandhi tvaceva. No. 39 gives a case exactly opposite to this. Here slipping of prajāā due to the misbehaviour of one indriya is compared to the trickling of udaka from drtipāda or foot of a skin. Here the Upamāna tena (indriyena) is put in the instrumental and the Upameya drteh pādāt in the ablative, since the root kṣar is used with both the instrumental and the ablative. In No. 112 the prākaranika rājan is compared with dharā in point of equally supporting the people (dhāraṇa). Here dharā, the Upamāna is put in the nominative while being influenced by the word vratam (of the king) in 'd' the Taddhita pārthivam becomes an adjective Here bibhratah naturally refers to rājūah (to be supplied) which thus is put in the genitive. The word bibhratah is really the short form of the expression 'yah (rājā) bibharti tasya'. For the anakoluthic construction here see section 23 below. In No. 219, subīja springing up in suksetra is brought in comparison with the son of an Āryan born by an Ārya. Here disagreement in case and gender obtains between the Upameya (āryāt) masculine and the corresponding Upamāna subījam (neuter), as the former is in the ablative while the latter is in the nominative. This is due to the sādhāraṇa dharma not being really sādhāraṇa. For this see section 12 below.

10. When the Upamā is expressed with the help of two independent sentences, the sādhāraṇa dharma is repeated twice. Exact repetition of this dharma takes place in Nos. 1, 7, 10, 12, 20, 22, 28, 36, 37, 77, 120, 140, 151 and 210. In Malopamas generally the sādhārana dharma between the Upameya and the Upamanas is the same. There is only the following exception. In Nos. 144, 193, 202 and 216, rājan is compared to baka (heron), vrka (wolf), śaśa (hare) and simha (lion) respectively. Here the sādhāraņa dharma is different in case of each Upamāna. It is arthacintana in case of baka, avalumpana in the case of vika, vinispatana in case of śaśa and parākrama in that of simha. Sometimes the repetition of this sādhāraṇa dharma is undertaken with only a slight variation. In No. 6, dahati is the sādhāraṇa dharma which is mentioned once with the upasarga nir (going with the Upamāna) and secondly without it (going with the Upameya). In No. 94 the sādhāraṇa dharma namely āśritya vartante occurs with the upasarga sam while going with the Upamana and without it, while going with the Upameya. Similarly in No. 169 the sādhāraņa dharma i.e. na himsanti is repeated twice once with the upasarga upa and secondly without it. At times the sādhāraņa dharma is expressed twice but by two synonyms. This happens in No. 161 where the sādhāraṇa dharma is expressed once by the word vinasyati and second by majjati which ultimately mean the same thing. Sometimes the sādhāraṇa dharma is expressed in both ways negative and positive in order to lend force to the expression. Thus in No. 3, not being satisfied with a negative expression namely na śāmyati going with the Upameya kāma and their upabhoga, the poet expresses the same idea in a positive manner with the word abhivardhate going with the Upamāna kiṣṇavartman and havis. In No. 5, however, the poet uses na duṣyati, a negative expression going with the Upamāna pāvaka and chooses pūjyāh, a positive one with the Upameya. Here the latter being brāhmaṇāh, the positive and emphatic expression in its case can be attributed to the fact that the poet was a champion of Brahmanism.

11. When the construction of the Upamāna-vākya differs from that of the Upameya-vākya the mention of the sādhāraṇa dharma twice in two different expressions becomes necessary. Thus the Upamānavākya is put in the active construction and the Upameya-vākya in the passive and hence the sādhāraņa dharma is mentioned twice in Nos. 173, 178 (189, 209), 180 and 185. No. 173 the sādhāraņa dharma is expressed twice but with synonymous expressions namely niyacchati with the Upamāna and niyanlavyālı with the Upameya. In Nos. 178 (189 & 209), the dharma takes two different forms according to the nature of the associate. With kara (tax), the Upameya it is alpagrahana (alpogrhītavyah) and with ādya, the Upamāna it is alpādana (alpam alpam adanti). In No. 185, the sādhāraņa dharma is mentioned twice with a variation. With Māruta the Upamāna it is pravišya samcāra while with rājan, the Upameya it is merely praveśa or praveśtavyam. In No. 180, however, the poet has preferred to put the Upamāna-vākya in passive construction and the Upameyavākya in the active. Here the sādhāraņa dharma is expressed with different yet synonymous expressions namely baddhāh going with the Upamāna Varuņa and nigrhņīyāt going with the Upameya rājan. In all these cases, an advice is given to rajan in the Upameyavākya and hence the words expressive of common property (sādhārana dharma) going with it (the Upameya) are put in the potential namely niyantavyāh in No. 173, alpo alpo grhītavyah in Nos. 178, (189, 209), pravestavyam in No. 185 and nigrhniyat in No. 180.

The dharma with the Upamāna is in the present tense. Thus all these are cases of disagreement in mood or vidhi. For the difference in case owing to change of construction see sec. 8.

- At times the sādhāraṇa dharma is not really sādhāraṇa dharma but is similar and hence it has to be expressed with two different words altogether. This happens in No. 219, where a son born of an Ārya from an Āryā is compared to subīja born in suksetra. Here the sādhāraņa dharma takes two different forms namely samskāramarhati with the Upameya and sampadyate with the Upamana. For the difference in case and gender see sec. 9 above and for restrictive expression see sec. 13 below. No. 47 offers an example where the choice of passive construction on the part of the poet has created a difficulty in expressing the sādhāraṇa dharma which is not really sādhāraṇa. Here vidyā is the Upameya and subham bija, the Upamāna. The sādhāraņa dharma is conceived as dropping or employing which should have been expressed in two different ways according to the nature of the associate as in No. 219 above. With vidyā it is vaktavyā and with bīja it is vaptavyam. The poet had to choose the former instead of using a common expression on account of the passive construction. This has given rise to lingabheda also for which see sec. 4 above. No. 172 offers a different case altogether as Padanidarsana contained in yāmyā vṛtti forms the sādhāraṇa dharma of the comparison of the nṛpa or rājan with yama.
- 13. Sometimes the Upamāna is conditioned by a restrictive attribute or expression in order to bring it in correspondence with the Upameya. In No. 33, the Upameya is a brāhmana who perishes on account of coveting gifts. Here the Upamāna āmapātra is restricted by the attribute ambhasi in order to make it suitable to the context of vināśa, as āmatva by itself does not lead to destruction. In the Upamāna, āma corresponds to lobkātpratigraha in the Upameya but there is nothing corresponding to ambhasi in the Upameya. Similarly in Nos. 75 and 76 the Upamāna gauli is restricted by the attributes andhā and panke respectively. In the former this is undertaken to suggest the similiarity of andhātva of gauh with the sambhojanītva of dakṣinā, the Upameya; so that ekatraivāste stands to reason in case of both. In the latter, panke the adjective of the Upamāna gauh makes it correspond with rāṣṭram of a king in which a śūdra explains the law, in point of the sādhāraṇa dharma sīdati. In No. 131, the second Upamāna namely putra for the Upameya śrotriya is restricted by the word aurasa in order to support sarvatah samraksana, the sādhārana dharma. In No. 158, if the reading jale matsyānivāhimsyuḥ is accepted, jale becomes a restrictive attribute of the Upamana employed for making it suitable as an Upamāna for durabalāh, the Upameya in point of āhimsana to sādhāraṇa dharma. In No. 219, su in the double Upamāna subīja and suksetra is employed in order that it may correspond with the double Upameya ārya and āryā. No. 185 offers an example where a word belonging only to the Upameya is used in order to bring out its correspondence with the Upamana. Here rājan is compared to māruta in point of pravišya samcāra; but nothing corresponding to cāraih (in case of the former) is used in the Upamāna; as cārah belong to the Upameya rājan only and make it correspond to māruta. In No. 97, however, the restrictive adjective anadhīyāna of the Upameya brāhmaņa corresponds to tṛṇa which is compared with the Upamāna tṛṇāgni, which means trnakrta agni. Here the sādhārana dharma is na sāmyati, as both of them do not function for long.

14. At times restrictive words used in the Upamana suggest a corresponding restriction in the Upameya. In No. 7, the adjective ardran of the Upamana namely druman suggests a corresponding adjective such as dustaram or dirgham in case of the Upameya viz. karmajam doşam as is indicated by the word api in ārdrānapi drumān. Similarly the adjective jātabala of the Upamāna vahni suggests the arthajñāna of the Vedas in case of Vedajña, the Upameya. Really the arthajñāna corresponds to the strength of fire. Ultimately the meaning is that just as strong fire burns even wet trees so a learned brahmin destroys even great sins, evils or misfortunes. In No. 21, the adjective kraturāt used of the Upamāna aśvamedha indicates a similar adjective sūktarāţi of the Upameya aghamarşana sūkta. In No. 28, asṭau māsān serves a restrictive adjunct in case of the Upamana āditya drawing up water with rays. This suggests a corresponding restriction in the drawing of the taxes (karas) by the nrpa gradually on appropriate occassions and in proper time. For the lopa in the stanza see sec. 16 below. Similarly in No. 36, vārşikānścaturo māsān restricts the Upamäna-vākya namely Indra sending showers and suggests that the nrpa (Upameya) should shower gifts on his rastra on proper occasions only. In No. 37, viddhamanuviddhyatah restricts the Upamana işu which is said to be shot in vain and suggests a similar adjective namely kşiptamanukşipatah in case of the Upameya namely the person who sows the seed in another's wife. In No. 49, rtuparyaye restricts the double Upamana rtu and rtulinga and suggests a corresponding restriction such as systyantare in case of the double Upameya dehinah and karmāṇi. Here rtus obtaining their distinctive marks i.e. rtulingas are offered as the Upamāna for dehins resuming their respective karmāni in their new births. The word pasyatah used in the Upameya-vākya in No. 76 where the rāstra of a king who allows a śūdra to discuss dharma or law in his kingdom is compared to panke gauh in point of sidana, suggests the comparison of the king with a cow boy who helplessly watches the calamity. In No. 102, the Upamana trivedadhyayana given for the Upameya dharmaśāstra suggests the adhyayana of the latter though not expressed. In No. 120, a śuśrūsu pupil obtaining vidyā from the guru is compared to a person a nara obtaining vāri i.e. water by digging into the ground with a khanitra i.e. spade. Here the correspondence between the adjectives of the Upamcya and the Upamana namely śuśrūsu and khanitrena khanana suggests the comparison of sevā and khanitra. It appears that the poet wants to suggest the adjective prthvīgatam of vāri, the Upamāna corresponding to gurugatā, the adjective of vidyā, the Upameya. This further suggests the comparison of guru and pṛthvī; the former being the treasure of vidyā i.e. knowledge and the latter, the storehouse of vāri i.e. water. For the lopa contained in the verse see sec. 16 below. In No. 143, the double Upamana namely udake taran (nara) and aupala plava is brought in correspondence with the ignorant dātā and (equally) ignorant pratīcchaka. Here the instrumenal in the Upāmāna aupala plava brings out its karaņatva which suggests a similar karanatva of the corresponding Upameya namely praticchaka in spite of its being put in the nominative. For the difference in case between the two refer to sec. 7 above. In

No. 194, the adjective sicyamāna of the Upamāna druma is intended to bring out the correspondence with bāhubalāśritam in case of the Upameya rāṣṭram. Here bāhubalāśraya is compared to seka or sprinkling, resulting into vardhana or prosperity which is the sādhārana dharma.

- Sometimes the Upamāna is related to the Upameya as is viśesa to sāmānya. No. 22 is a case in point. Here the subsidiary Upameya is anumāna and the corresponding Upamāna is asṛkpāta. It is evident that asrkpāta is only one of the anumānas which lead the migayu or hunter to trace the track of miga or deer. For the disagreement in gender and number which results from this, see sec. 3 above. In No. 34, the adjective āryarūpa of the Upamāna nara (to be taken twice in both the vākyas), corresponds to avijītāla in the Upameya. Correspondence does exist in case of the two predicative adjectives of the Upameya namely varnāpeta and kaluşayonija and a similar adjective namely anārya in case of the Upamana. Smoetimes one and the same word serves as the Upamāna and Upameya on account of Śleṣa as in No. 56 where the word anga means a member (limb) of the government with the Upameya rājan (prākaranika) and limbs with the Upamāna kūrma. In No. 119, the words expressive of Upamāna namely nadīnada is a samāhāra. In No. 148, the secondary Upamāna namely rsabha is indirectly mentioned through the taddhita from ārṣabham. In Nos. 178 (189, 209), the word expressive of the subsidiary Upamāna namely ādya though mentioned once is to be construed with all the three Upamanas namely vatsa, vāryokas and saipada brought in correspondence in the Upameya rājan. For the change in construction resulting into disagreement in case see sec. 8 above. For the Lopa see sec. 16 below.
- 16. This brings us to Luptopamäs. At times words in the Upameya-vākya are lupta. Thus in Nos. 10, 77 and 210, dāna and ajña, gauh and gauh and sandha and strī are brought in as standards of comparison with aphalatva as sādhārana dharma. Here doubt exists about the exact nature of the double Upameya. Part of it is anrea vipra corresponding to dāna, gauh and sandha. The other part corresponding to ajña, gauh and strī appears to be śrautasmārta karma, as suggested by Kullūka. This, however, is lupta. Thus anyca vipra who is aphala in śrautasmārta karma is compared with dana in case of ajña, gauh in case of another gauh and sandha in case of striyah; as all these are also aphala. For the resulting disagreement in gender see sec. 4. This happens in No. 120 where a śuśrūsu pupil obtaining vidyā from the guru is compared to a nara or a person obtaining vāri or water by digging into the ground (khanan) with a khanitra or a spade. Here the correspondence exists between the adjective śuśrūșu in the Upameya-vākya and the corresponding adjective khanitrena khanan in the Upamanavākya. Thus resulting into the comparison of sevā and khanitra as pointed out in sec. 14 above. But the substantive brahmacārī in the Upameya-vākya corresponding to nara in the Upamānavākya is not expressed. For other suggestions in the verse see sec. 14 above. Lopa in the Upamāna-vākya is not conspicuous by its absence. In Nos. 178, 189 and 210, vatsa, varyokas and satpada accepting their ādya i.e. food bit by bit are brought in comparison with rājan who is advised to accept the karas (taxes) from his rastra little by little. Here the source of food corresponding to răștra, in the Upameya-vākya is not mentioned in the Upamāna-vākya. For the change of construction in the stanza resulting into difference in case as well as for Upamana being mentioned only once, refer to sections 8 and 15 above. Both these were cases of Lopa in double Upamanas. Lopa in a quadruple Upamāna is also present in No. 28. Here āditya sucking up toya (water) by its raśmayah is given as the Upamāna for the king i.e. nrpa accepting karas (taxes) from his kingdom i.e. rāṣṭra. Here Lopa occurs in both i.e. in the Upameya-vākya as well as the Upamāna-vākya. Thus corresponding to raśmibhih in the Upamana, there should be adhikaribhih in the Upameya, which, is dropped. On the other hand, the Upamana does not contain the word samudrādibhyah corresponding to rāstrāt in the Upameya. Along with these Upameya-luptā and Upamānaluptā Upamās, the solitary instance of Vādilupta may be mentioned. Thus in Nos. 225 and 227 a woman i.e. strī is compared with a hamsa i.e. swan and vāraņa (hastin) i.e. elephant in point of gamana or graceful gait. As the Mālopamā is expressed here with the help of a compound namely hamsavāraņagāminīm, the Upamā drops vādi i.e. iva the word expressive of it and hence the Upamā is Vādiluptā.

17. Dharmaluptā Upamā is, however, most common. These Upamās can be mainly divided into two categories, samāsagā and vākyagā. The former occurs when the Upamāvācaka is compounded with the Upamana and the latter occurs when it is not so compounded and the Upamā is expressed with the help of a full sentence. Coming to Dharmaluptā Upamās expressed with the help of a samāsa we find that in case of single Upamānas it occurs 7 times and in that of double Upamana only once. Nos. 4 and 40 vipras are compared with jvalana i.e. agni or fire and ambu i.e. udaka or water. Here the sādhāraņa dharma as understood by Buhler is śucitva which is not expressed. This would make the Mālopamā Dharmaluptā; jvalanāmbusamā makes it samāsagā. If, however, na doso bhavati is understood as the common property, Upamā would become samāsagā Pūrņopamā. In Nos. 130 and 164, jyesthavrtti jyestha is compared with pitā and mātā. This is also Mālopamā containing single Upamānas. Here vṛtti or treatment which is the sādhāraṇa dharma is omitted. Hence Dharmaluptā ; māteva or piteva make it samāsagā. In No. 45, bhaikṣeṇa vṛtti is likened to upavāsa in point of puṇyāvahatva, the sādhāraņa dharma, which however, is lupta; ūpavāsasamā brings in samāsagā. In No. 71, retahseka with svayonis (sisters by the same mother), kumaris, antyajas and sakhyuh or putrasya striyah is compared with gurutalpa (violation of Guru's bed) in respect of being pāpāvaha or (equally) sinful. Here pāpāvahātva is not expressed... The expression gurutalpasamam makes it samāsagā. In No. 175, the apaharana of niksepa, nara, aśva, rajata, bhūmi vajra, and mani is compared to rukumasteya (stealing gold) and in No. 192, kāmākārataļi agninamapavedha (voluntary neglect of sacred fires) is likened to vīrahatyā (killing of a warrior or the slaughter of a son), in respect of being (equally) pāpāvaha. The word pāpāvahatva is dropped' in both the stanzas. The expression rukmasteyasamam in the latter make both the Upamās samāsagā. In No. 221, however, many Upameyas, namely brahmojjhatā, vedanindā, kautasāksyam, suhrdvadhaḥ and garhitānādyayoh jagdhih are compared to a single Upamāna namely surāpānam. Here also the sādhārana dharma is pāpāvahatva,

- which is lupta. The word surāpānasamam makes this Upamā also samāsagā. No. 11 contains double Upamāna where the intention of the poet is to compare an arthavaikalya-bhāṣitā nara i.e. a liar with an andha i.e. blind man eating sakanṭaka matsyas i.e. fish with bones as both ultimately come to grief. Here duḥkhaprāpti, which is the sādhārana dharma is lupta; matsyāniva makes it samāsagā. For the irregularity in expressing the Upamā see sec. 22 below.
- 18. This leads us to Vākyagā Dharmaluptā Upamās. They are 7 in number. All of them contain single Upamānas, expressed with the help of full sentences. The sādhāraṇa dharmas that are lupta are dhanasvīkārayogyatva in case of putra, the Upameya, and ātman, the Upamana in No. 26 as well as in that of Duhitā (Upameya) and putra (Upamāna) in No. 135, ādaraņīyatva in case of mātṛśvasā, mātulānī, śvaśrū with pitṛṣvasā (Upameyas) and gurubhāryā (Upamāna) in No. 70, doṣabhāktva in case of lipsāvān brāhmaṇa (Upameya) and stena i.e. caura or thief (Upamāna) in 92, svargasādhanatva in case of dharmaśāstra (Upameya) and trivédādhyayana (Upamāna) in No. 102, pāpāvahatva in case of many Upameyas namely samutkarse anrta, rājagāmi paišuna with guroļi alīkanirbandhaḥ and the single Upamāna brahmahatyā in No. 153 and patitatva-between the Upameya namely bhartā who causes the duties to be performed by another (woman) when the wife of equal caste exists and the Upamāna namely Brāhmaṇacāṇdāla in No. 155.
- 19. Thus in Dharmaluptā Upamās we find that pāpā-vahatva and punyāvahatva are the usually omitted dharmas. This is perfectly natural in a work on Dharmaśāstra. This shows that the respective Upamānas were too well-known to make the mention of the dharma with reference to them, necessary. Thus upavāsa was known to be punyāvaha and gurutalpa, brahmahatyā, rukmasteya, vīrahatyā and surāpāna were the avowed pātakas of the day. The same argument can be advanced in case duhkhaprāpti of a blind man eating fish with bones, ādaranīyatva in case of pitā and mātā as well as patitatva of a brāhmanacāndāla and doṣabhāktva of a stena or thief.
- 20. Triluptā Upamās occur in expressions like bakavrtti in No. 145, bakravratika in No. 145A and baidālavratika in No.

- 148. In these expressions only vrtti or vrata, the Upameya is mentioned and all other parts (remaining three) of the Upamā are dropped. These words are formed on the authority of the Vārtika, 'saptamyupamānapūrvapadasya bahuwrīhiruttarapadalopaśca'.
- 21. There are only two Upamās based on Vaidharmya. In No. 74, adharma is compared to gauh in respect of the sādhāraṇa dharma-na sadyah phalati. Kullūka takes gauh, in the sense of a milch cow or a full-grown bull which gives its reward immediately and understands the Upamā to be based on Vaidharmya. The Upamā can be considered as one based on Sādharmya if gauh is understood in the sense of a cow which yields its reward i.e. milk only after bringing forth the calf and thus bringing about the abhāva of sadyah phalana like that of adharma. No. 133, however, is a clear instance of an Upamā based on Vaidharmya, as here the fact that the king who does not eat meat, disregarding the rules, becomes deer to men and free from disease is brought out by the dissimilar example of piśāca eating meat without any idea of observing any rule and becoming hateful.
- 22. In addtion to this, there are some Upamās in Manusmrti, which are expressed in a totally irregular way. These Upamās deserve a separate mention. Thus No. 11 compares an arthavaikalyabhāṣitā nara i.e. a liar with an andha i.e. a blind man eating (aśana) sakantaka matsyas i.e. fish with bones as both ulitmately come to grief. duhkhaprāpti, therefore, is the sādhārana dharma, which is not expressed as is indicated in sec. 17 above. The Upamā is expressed in a very unusual manner. Very probably the poet has conceived it as a Nidarśanā where arthavaikalya-bhāṣitā narah is ultimately compared to sakanṭakamatsyabhakşayıtā andhah. This is indicated by the fact that the Upameya sa narah is sandwitched between two parts of the Upamana namely matsyām and kanṭakaih. If iva is taken to be Utprekṣāvācaka, the Nidarśanā would certainly be less spoilt. In No. 149, two verses namely IX-50 and 51 go to form the Upamā. The real Upamā is in 50 d and 51 ab; 50 d expects a context of 51 a, b and c. The intention of the poet is to compare the seed (bija) of an aksetrin (i.e. another's wife) to the dropped (skandita) bija (i.e. seed) of a bull (ārṣabha) in cows belonging to others. The sādhārana dharma is moghatva or uselessness. Here ṛṣabha or vṛṣabha the secondary Upamāna corresponding to parakṣetrapravāpī is expressed indirectly with the Taddhita form ārṣabham as indicated in sec. 15 above. The Upameya has two adjectives namely akṣetrin and parakṣetra-pravāpin. Corresponding to the latter there is anyagoṣu in 50 a i.e. the Upamāna-vākya; but a similar adjective corresponding to akṣetrin in the Upameya could not be conceived in case of ṛṣabha or vṛṣabha, the Upamāna, as the latter does not possess any kṣetra as such.

- 23. In two Upamäs, the construction becomes anakoluthic in view of the irregularity in expressing the Upamā. Thus in No. 112, dharā or earth is brought in as an Upamāna for rājan in point of bhūtānām dhāraṇa i.e. supporting all creatures. Here the poet begins with an active construction in the Upamanavākya and puts the Upamana dharā in the nominative; but being influenced by the words parthivam vratam in d, he chooses to express the Upamāna rājan which is to be supplied with a genitive (such as rājñah) as shown by the expression bibhratah. This bibhratah is to be taken as the short form of the expression yah bibharti tasya as is shown in sec. 9 above. Nos. 167 and 228 offer another example of this kind of construction. Here carmamaya mṛga and kāṣṭhamaya hastin are brought in comparison with an anadhīyāna vipra in point of nāma bibhrati, which is the common property. Here the poet uses yaśca instead of tātha for emphasizing the Upameya as shown in sec. 2 above. The poet begins with an Upama, but being influenced by the word 'te' in d which replaces tathā by yaśca, concludes the verse with a Dipaka where the prakrta vipra and aprakrta mrga and hastin are connected by means of one common property namely nāma bibhrati. Hence the anakoluthic construction.
- 24. In conclusion, we find that the author of Manusmrti is not very particular in expressing Upamās as they are not his primary concern. This gives rise to changes of construction in the Upameya-vākya and the Upamāna-vākya, which in their turn, give rise to disagreement in case. Parts of the Upameya and Upamāna are dropped many a time. Dharmaluptā is not conspicuous by its absence. Irregularities in expressing the Upamā do arise on account of the change of the mind of the poet. This brings in anakoluthic construction.

TRANSLATION (OF THE PASSAGES) AND NOTES

श्रिक्त (and महद्देवतम्)

A Brāhmaṇa, be he ignorant (avidvān) or learned (vidvān) is a great divinity just as Agni i.e. fire whether consecrated (praṇāta) by prayers or not consecrated (apraṇāta) is a great divinity (IX-317).

Upameya—Brāhmaṇa

Upamāna—Agni

Sādhāraņa Dharma-mahat daivatam,

Upamāvācaka—Yathā

Note:—Correspondence between Brāhmaṇa and Agni as also between avidvān and apraṇīta, vidvān and praṇīta is intended; only they have been mentioned in an inverted order i.e. the correct order would have been apraṇītaśca praṇītaśca. But this would have disturbed the metre by causing one letter more. The Upameya-vākya precedes the Upamāna-vākya, hence the dropping of tathā. The Upamā is expressed with the help of two independent sentences; therefore the common property namely daivatam mahat is mentioned twice.

(2) श्रग्नि (and प्रतापयुक्तत्व-तेजस्वित्व)

(If) he (i.e. the king) is ardent in wrath (pratāpayukta) against criminals and endowed with brilliant energy (tejasvī), and destroys wicked vassals, then his character (vratam) is said (to resemble) that of Fire (āgneyam) (IX-310).

Upameya: nṛpa from stanza 309.

Upamanā—Agni

Sādhārana Dharma:—pratāpayukta and tejasvī

Note:—This is Gamyopamā suggested by the Nidarśanā contained in 'āgneyam vratam' in d. 'As the Upamā is gamyā, the Upamāvācaka is conspicuous by its absence.

(3) अग्नि i.e. कृष्णवत्में न् and हविस्

Desire is never extinguished by the enjoyment of desired objects; it only grows stronger like Kṛṣṇavartman i.e. fire (fed) with havis i.e. clarified butter or oblation.

(II--94).

Upameya: Kāma and Kāmānām upabhoga

Upamāna-kṛṣṇavartman and havis

Sādhāraņa Dharma:—abhivardhate and na śāmyati

Upamāvacaka: iva.

Note:—This Upamā contains a double Upamāna. Here the Sādhārana Dharma is repeated twice, once namely na sāmyati goes with the Upameya and the other abhivardhate, with the Upamāna. The former is negative, while the latter is positive. Not being satisfied with the negative expression in a and b the poet expresses the same idea in a positive manner in d.

(4) अग्नि i.e. ज्वलन (and अदोपभाक्त्व)

By teaching, by sacrificing for, and by accepting gifts from despicable (men), no sin accrues to Brāhmaṇas or Vipras; (for) they (to) are like jvalana i.e. fire (and ambu i.e. water) (X—103).

Upameya: Te i.e. viprāh mentioned in c

Upamānas: jvalana as well as ambu

Sādhāraņa Dharma—na doso bhavati

Upamāvācaka-sama

Note:—This is a Mālopamā as two Upamānas are mentioned for one Upameya. There is disagreement in number between the Upameya namely te which is plural and Upamānas namely jvalana and ambu, both of which are singular in number. There is also disagreement in gender between the Upameya i.e. te and one of the two Upamānas namely ambu, as the former is masculine while the latter is neuter.

G. Bühler translates d as 'for they (are as pure)' as fire and water. It seems that the common property between the Upamānas and the Upameya, according to him is purity or śucitva. This would make the stanza an instance of Dharmaluptā Upamā as the dharma namely śucitva or purity is left to be understood. This construction, though quite plausible, is not necessary in view of 'na doso bhavati' mentioned in c which serves the purpose of supplying the common property intended by the poet.

Also see No. 40 below.

(5) श्रिक्त i.e. पावक and रमशान

The brilliant fire namely pāvaka is not contaminated even.

in burial places i.e. śmaśāneṣu and when presented with oblations (of butter) at sacrifices, it again increases mightily. Thus, though Brāhmaṇas employ themselves in all (sorts of) mean occupations, they must be honoured in every way; for (each of) them is a very great deity (IX-318-19.).

Upameya: Brāhmana and anistāni karmāni

Upamāna: Pāvaka and smasānas

Sādhāraņa Dharma: na dusyati and pūjyāh

Upamāvācaka: evam

Note:—There is a double Upamāna in the Upamā. Here the antecedent yathā is dropped. The Sādhāraṇa Dharma is repeated, once negatively in na dusyati going with the Upamāna and then positively with pūjyāḥ going with the Upameya. Not being satisfied with a negative expression in verse 318 b, the poet expresses the same idea in a positive manner in verse 319 c. The emphasis on the Sādhāraṇa Dharma going with the Upameya namely Brāhmaṇas, stands to reason in case of the author who is a champion of Brahmanism. Here the antecedent yathā is dropped.

(6) श्रिन i.e. विह्न and एथस् and तेजस्

Just as vahni i.e. fire in one moment consumes with its flame (tejasā) the fuel (edhas) that has been placed upon it, even so he who knows the Vedas, destroys all guilt by the fire of knowledge (jñānāgninā). (XI—246).

Upameya: Vedavit, pāpa and jñānāgni Upamāna: Vahni, edhas and tejas

Sādhāraņa Dharma: nirdahati or dahati

Upamāvācaka: yathā-tathā

Note:—Here a triple Upamāna is present. Jñānāgni is a Rūpaka. On account of this Rūpaka, there is disagreement in gender with reference to the corresponding tajasā in the Upamānavākya. Otherwise jñāna would have been the proper Upameya. As the Upamā is expressed with the help of two independent sentences, the Sādhārana Dharma namely nirdahati is mentioned twice, once with the Upasarga nir and secondly without it.

This is Pūrnopamā helped by Rūpaka and hence the verse is an example of Sankara of Rūpaka and Upamā.

(7) अग्नि i.e. विह्न and द्रुम

Just as vahni or fire that has gained strength (jātabalo) consumes even trees (drumān) full of sap (ārdrān), even so he who knows the Veda, burns out the taint of his soul which arises from (evil) acts. (XII-101).

Upameya: Vedajña and Karmaja doṣa Upamāna:—Jātabalo Vahni and druma Sādhārana Dharma:—dahati,

Upamāvācaka:—yathā—tathā

Note—This Upamā contains a double Upamāna. Vedajña is compared with jātabalo vahni. It is clear that by Vedajña a person who knows the meaning of the Vedas in addition to knowing it by heart is meant. Compare 'granthato arthatasca vedajñah (Kulluka) and the knowledge of the meaning corresponds to the increased strength of the fire. Corresponding to the adjective ārdran, author probably means that we should supply a corresponding adjective in case of karmajam doṣam such as dustaram or dīrgham, as is indicated by api in ārdrānapi drumān. There is also disagreement in number between doṣam and drumān i.e. the former is singular, while the later is plural. The Sādhārana Dharma, as usual, is mentioned twice in keeping with two sentences that go to form the Upamā.

- (8) श्रङ्ग and कुमें see under कूमें and श्रङ्ग No. 56 below.
- (9) त्रजा (and उत्पादकस्य प्रजाभागित्वाभाव)

As with cows (gauh), mares (aśvā), female camels (uṣṭrā), slave-girls (dāsī), buffallo-cows (mahiṣī), she-goat i.e. ajā and ewes (avikā) (belonging to others), it is not the begetter i.e. utpādakah, who obtains the offspring (but their owner alone is so); even thus (it is) with the wives of others (IX-48).

Upameya: anyānganā

Upamānas: ajā, gauh, aśvā, uṣtra, dāsī, mahiṣī, avikā (belonging to others)

Sādhāraņa Dharma: notpādakaḥ prajābhāgī

Upamāvācaka: yathā-tathā

Note:—The stanza is an instance of Mālopamā as anyānganās are here compared with as many as seven Upamānas namely ajā, gauḥ, aśvā, uṣṭra, dāsī, mahiṣī and avikā (belonging to others).

In the Upamā, uṣtra, the feminine form is evidently intended, although uṣṭra is the word that actually occurs. Hence uṣṭra should be understood as referring to uṣṭrajāti.

(10) अज्ञ and दान

Just as a sandha i.e. a eunuch is unproductive with striyah i.e. women, as a gauh, or cow with another gauh is unprolific and as dāna i.e. gift made to ajña i.e. an ignorant man yields no reward i.e. aphala, even so is Brāhmana useless, who (does) not (know) Rks (II—158).

Upameya: anṛca vipra and śrautasmārta karma (lupta)

Upamānas: (i) dānam and ajña

- (ii) şandha and strī
- (iii) gauh and gauh

Sādhāraņa Dharma: aphalatva

Upamāvācaka: yathā-tathā

Note:—There is a double Upamāna in this Mālopamā: dānam and ajña, ṣanḍha and strī, and gauh and gauh. Aphalatva is the Sādhārana Dharma which is exactly repeated. The doubt, however, is about the exact nature of the double Upameya. Part of it is anṛcah viprah corresponding to dānam, ṣanḍha and gauḥ. The other part corresponding to ajñe, strṭīṣu, and gavi seems to be śrautasmārta karma (performed through anṛca vipra) as suggested by Kullūka. There is disagreement in respect of gender between the Upameya namely anṛca vipra (masculine) and two Upamānas namely dānam (neuter) and gauḥ (feminine). The other Upameya śrautasmārtam karman (neuter) differs in gender from all the three Upamānas namely ajña (masculine), strī (feminine) as well as gauh (feminine).

(11) श्रन्थ and सकण्टकमत्स्यारान

That man who is a court (of justice) gives an untrue account of a transaction (arthavaikalya) (or asserts a fact) of which he was not an eye-witness, resembles an andha or a blind man who swallows matsyas i.e. fish with kantakas i.e. bones (VIII—95).

Upameya: Nara and arthavaikalyabhāṣaṇa

Upamāna: Andha and sakantakamatsyāśana

Sādhārana Dharma: duhkhaprāpti (lupta)

Upamāvācaka: iva

Note:—In effect, the Upamā containing a double Upamāna, appears like Vākyagā where iva is irregularly used for yathā. The intention of the poet is to compare a liar with a blind man eating fish with bones (kanṭakaiḥ saha). Sakanṭakamatsyāśana is conceived as the subsidiary Upamāna for Arthavaikalyabhāṣana, both being dangerous.

It is, however, probable that the poet has conceived this as a Nidarśanā where the liar is identified with or represented as a blind man swallowing fish with bones. This is clear from the words 'sa narah' referring to the Upameya (liar), sandwitched between the two parts of the Upamāna namely matsyān and kantakaih. But this intended Nidarśanā is spoilt by the use of the Upamāvācak iva. It is perhaps possible to take this iva as an Utprekṣāvācaka, in which case the Nidarśanā would be less spoilt.

As it stands, the stanza would be an example of Śrautī Samāsagā Dharmaluptā Upamā. It is Dharmaluptā as the common property (dharmā) namely duḥkhaprāpti (i.e. coming to giref) is not expressed.

(12) अपरपन्न and पूर्वेपन्न

As the Aparapakṣa i.e. the second half of the month (kṛṣṇapakṣa) is preferable to Pūrvapakṣa i.e. the first half (śuklapakṣa), even so the afternoon is better for (the performance) of a funeral sacrifice than the fore-noon (III—278).

Upameya: Aparāhnna and pūrvāhnna Upamāna: Aparapakṣa and pūrvapakṣa

Sādhāraņa Dharma: viśişyate Upamāvācaka : yathā—tathā

Note:—Here also a double Upamāna is present. The Sādhāraṇa Dharma namely viśiṣyate is expressed twice in keeping with the two sentences used, in expressing the Upamā. The repetition is exact. For the Aparapakṣa giving better fruit than Pūrvapakṣa, compare 'kṛṣṇapakṣaḥ śuklapakṣāt śrāddhasya sambandhī viśiṣṭaphalado bhavati (Kullūka).

(13) শ্বদূর (and শ্বাকাভ্রা)

A Brāhmana should (always) dislike homage like poison i.e. visa: and constantly desire (to suffer) scom i.e. avamāna as (he would long for) Amrta i.e. nectar (II—162).

Upameyas: (i) avamāna, (ii) sammāna

Upamāna: (i) amṛta, (ii) viṣa Sādhāraṇa Dharma: ākānkṣet

Upamāvācaka: iva

Note:—Here 'udvijeta viṣādiva' in b contains another independent Upamā for which see No. 191 below. Thus the verse contains two Upamās. In both t Upameyas viz. avamāna and sammāna are masculine in gender; while the Upamānas namely amṛtam and viṣam are neuter in gender.

- (17) श्रहन्थती (and भत्°लोकस्थिति)

That woman, who after being (once) given by her parents (in marriage) remains chaste, i.e. faithful to her husband till her life (lasts), never leaves the Bhartrloka like Arundhatī [V (21).]

Upameya: Yā i.e. pativratā,

Upamāna: Arundhatī

Sādhāraņa Dharma: bhartṛlokam na tyajati

Upamāvācaka : yathā-tathā

Note:—This śloka is accepted and commented by the commentator Rāmacandra. Hence it is included here.

(18) श्रविका (and उत्पादकस्य प्रजाभागित्वाभाव) IX-48.

Upameya: anyānganā,

Upamāna: avikā (belonging to others)

Sādhāraņa Dharma : notpādakah prajābhāgī

Upamāvācaka : yathā-tathā

Note:—For the details of the Upama, see under স্থা No. 9- above.

(19) (अम्भिस) अश्मप्लव (and मजन)

A Brāhmaṇa who neither performs austerities nor studies the Veda, yet delights in accepting gifts sinks with it (i.e. pratigraha), just as (he who attempts to cross over in) a boat made of stone i.e. aimaplava (is submerged) in the water (ambhasi) along with it V—190).

Upameya: An anadhīyāna dvija with pratigraha Upamāna: A dvija with an (ambhasi) asmaplava,

Sādhāraņa Dharma: majjati

Upamāvācaka: iva

Note:—There is a correspondence between the attributes of the main Upamāna and Upameya both of which are conveyed by the same word dvijah. 'Want of study and penance' correspond to the 'use of a stone-boat in water'. Majjati is the Sādhāraṇa Dharma. It metaphorically means 'sinks down or perishes' and literally it means 'sinks' or 'is submerged'. The double Upameya is dvija receiving a pratigraha for prosperity and the Upamāna is the dvija who uses an aśma-plava i.e. a stone-boat in water. In case of the Upameya the cause which leads to the failure of his pratigraha is want of study and penance and that in case of the Upamāna is 'being made of stone' of the boat makes him sink. Thus there is a correspondence between the two.

Here in this interpretation 'tena' refers to the pratigraha only and not to the 'dātā' as Kullūka and other commentators suggest. If their interpretation of 'tena' referring to 'dātrā' is accepted, the whole simile will be disturbed, for it will bring out a correspondence between dātā and plava. But the dātā never wants to become a plava i.e. a cause of tarana himself, but offers gifts to the dvija whom he expects to be a plava leading him to the heavenly world. Between the dātā and pratigraharucih dvijah, the latter is expected to be a plava leading the former to a higher world. So it is better to take 'tena' as referring to pratigraha in the Upameya or else supply dātā as the subject of majjati in d and take the first half as a relative clause with yah supplied and tenaiva going with it in view of No. 143 below.

(20) अश्वमेध (and सर्वपापानोदन)

As the Asvamedha i.e. horse-sacrifice, the king of sacrifices removes all sin, even so that Aghamarsana hymn effaces all guilt (XI—260.).

Upameya: Aghamarşana Sükta,

Upamānā: Aśvamedha

Sādhāraņa Dharma: Sarvapāpāpanodanatva

Upamāvācaka: yathā—tathā

Note:—Here the suggestive adjective kraturāt used of the Upamāna Aśvamedha indicate that a similar adjective is to be understood in case of the Upameya i.e. the Aghamarṣaṇa Sūkta such a sūktarāt i.e. the best of Sūktas. There is disagreement in gender with reference to the Upameya Aghamarṣaṇa Sūkta and the Upamāna Aśvamedha i.e. for former is neuter while the latter is masculine. The common property or the Sādhāraṇa Dharma is mentioned twice in keeping with two independent sentences that go to form the Upamā. The repetition is exact.

(21) श्रश्वा (and उत्पादकस्य प्रजाभागित्वाभाव) IX-48.

Upameya: anyānganā

Upamāna: aśvā (belonging to others) Sādhāraṇa Dharma: notpādakah prajābhāgī

Upamāvācaka: yathā-tathā.

Note:—For the details of the Upamā see under স্থলা No. 9 above.

(22) श्रस्त्वपात and मृगयु and मृग

As a hunter i.e. mrgayu traces the liar (pada) or tracks the the steps of a (wounded) deer i.e. mrga by the drops of blood i.e. asrkpāta, even so the king (nrpati) shall discover the path of Dharma (i.e. shall discover on which side the right lies) by inferences i.e. anumāna (from the facts) (VIII—44).

Upameya: Nṛpati, dharma and anumāna Upamāna: Mṛgayu, mṛga and asṛkpāta Sādhāraṇa Dharma: padanayana,

Upamāvācaka: yathā-tathā

Note:—This Upamā contains a triple Upamāna. Here asrkpātaih in the Upamāna corresponds with anumānena in the Upameya. Between the two there is disagreement in respect of number and gender. As a matter of fact asrkpāta is only an anumāna i.e. hetu, so that in the Upamāna one particular anumāna is mentioned, while in the Upameya anumāna in general is stated. It is also possible to drop both these in the scheme of the Upamā because asrkpāta and anumāna are not really related to each other as the Upamāna and Upameya but only as the višesa and sāmānya. The Sādhārana Dharma is repeated twice in keeping with the two sentences that go to form the Upamā. Disagreement mood or vidhi is present here as the root ni is used in the present tense in the Upamāna and with the potential form in the Upameya.

(23) अहि and त्वच

A dvija i.e. twice-born man who (daily) repeats these three (i.e. vyāhrtis) one thousand times outside (the village), will be freed after a month even from great guilt, as a snake or ahi from its slough i.e. tvac (II—79).

Upameya: dvija and enas Upamāna: ahi and tvac

Sādhāraņa Dharma: vimucyate

Upamāvācaka: iva

Note:—Here a double Upamāna occurs. In the Upamā, tvacā corresponds with enasah. There is disagreement in respect of gender between them, the former is feminine, while the latter is neuter. Moreover, the Upamāna namely tvacā is put in the instrumental while the corresponding Upameya namely enasah is in the ablative. This is evidently for the sake of metre as it would have been disturbed if tvacah namely the ablative were to be used. Even though the root much with vi is associated with both the ablative and the instrumental (cases), the former is more common; hence the poet has begun with it. It is, however, possible to say that tvaceva should be taken as equal to tvacā iva and then a double Sandhi.

(24) श्रहि and त्वच

In proportion as a man who has done wrong (adharma), himself confesses it, even so far is he left by i.e. freed from guilt as a snake or ahi is left by i.e. freed from its slough i.e. tvac (XI—228).

Upameya: nara and adharma Upamāna: ahi and tvac

Sādhāraṇa Dharma: mucyate

Upamāvācaka: yathā—yathā and tathā-tathā

Note:—The Upamā contains a double Upamāna. Here tvacā corresponds with adharmena. There is disagreement in respect of gender bewteen them, the former is feminine while the latter is masculine.

(25) आकाश and पङ्क

He, who when in danger of losing his life accepts food from any person whatsoever, is not tainted by sin just as the sky i.e. $\bar{a}k\bar{a}\dot{s}a$ is not affected or tainted by mud i.e. panka (X—104).

Upameya: Jīvitātyayamāpannah (puruṣa) and pāpa

Upamāna: Akāša and panka Sādhāraņa Dharma: na lipyate

Upamāvācaka: iva

Note:—Here also a double Upamāna is present. There is disagreement in gender between the principal Upameya namely jīvitātyayamāpannah (puruṣaḥ) (masculine) and the corresponding Upamāna namely ākāśam (neuter) as well as the subsidiary Upameya namely pāpena (neuter) and the corresponding Upamāna namely pankena (masculine).

(26) ब्रात्मन् (and धनस्वीकारयोग्यत्व)

A son is even as good as oneself i.e. ātmā, (such) a daughter, i.e. duhitā is similar to a son i.e. putra, how can another (heir) take the estate or dhana (lit. money) while such (an appointed daughter who is even) oneself, lives? (IX—130).

Upameya: putra. Upamāna: ātman

Sādhārana Dharma: dhanasvīkārayogyatva (lupta)

Upamāvācaka: yathā-tathā

Note:—This is Śrautī Vākyagā Dharmaluptā Upamā. It is Dharmaluptā because the dharma or the common property namely dhanasvīkārayogyatva is lupta i.e. not expressed. As a matter of fact, however, the author does not mean a mere Upamā here; it is something more. A representative i.e. pratinidhi rather than a standard of comparison i.e. Upamāna, is intended to be conveyed by the word yathaiva tathā.

For another Upamā contained in the verse see No. 135 below.

(27) श्रादित्य (and तपन)

And like āditya or the Sun, he burns the eyes and the hearts (of men), nor can anybody on earth even gaze on him (VII—6).

Upameya: esa i.e. nrpa from stanza 5,

Upamāna: āditya,

Sādhāraņa Dharma: tapana,

Upamāvācaka: vat

(28) ब्रादित्य and तीय and रश्मिन् and समुद्र

As āditya or the Sun during eight months (imperceptibly) draws up the water i.e. toya with his rays i.e. raśmibhih, even so let him gradually draw his taxes from his kingdom for that is his arkavrata i.e. the office in which he resembles the Sun (IX—305).

Upameya: prākaraṇika nṛpa and kara, adhikāriṇah and rāṣṭra Upamāna: āditya and toya and raśmin and samudrādi

Sādhāraņa Dharma: haraņa Upamāvācaka: yathā—tathā

Note:—The Upamā contains a quadruple Upamāna. Here āṣṭaumāsān is a restrictive adjective in the Upamānavākya and perhaps it suggests a corresponding restriction in the drawing of taxes by the King gradually on appropriate occasions in proper times. The sun can draw up water during eight months. The King also should receive taxes and tributes only on proper occasions. For a similar adjective compare 'vārṣikānścaturo māsān' in No. 36 below. Corresponding to raśmibhih of the Upamāna, there is nothing actually stated in the Upameya. Perhaps adhikāribhih is suggested. On the other hand, the Upamāna does not contain the word samudrādi corresponding to rāṣṭrāt in the Upameya. The Sādhāraṇa Dharma is here repeated twice with the same root hr in the potential tense in the Upameya and in the present tense in the Upamāna. This gives rise to the disagreement in mood i.e. vidhi.

'arkavratam' in d is an instance of Nidarśanā. The stanza, therefore, is an instance of Sankara of Upamā and Nidarśanā. Sankara is defined by Mammaṭa as 'aviśrāntijuṣāmatmanyaṅgāṅgi tvam tu sankarh'

(29) ब्रादित्य i.e. सहस्रांशु (and प्रभा)

That (seed) became a golden egg, in brilliancy (prabhā) equal to the Sun i.e. Sahasrāmśu, in that (egg) he himself was born as Brāhmaṇa, the progenitor of the whole world (I—9).

Upameya: haimam anda Upamāna: Sahasrāmśu Sādhārana Dharm: prabhā Upamāvācaka: samam

Note:—There is disagreement in respect of gender between the Upameya andam (which is neuter) and the Upamāna Sahasrāmsu (which is masculine).

(30) आय and बत्स see No. 177 below.

- (31) आब and वार्योक्स see Nos. 177 and 188 below.
- (32) आब and षट्पद see Nos. 177 and 208 below.

(33) आमपात्र (and विनाश)

And if a Brāhmaṇa, though learned in Veda, accepts through covetousness a gift from such (a man), he will quickly perish like āmapātra i.e. a vessel of unburnt clay in water (ambhasi) (III—179).

Upameya: lobhātpratigrahakṛt vipra

Upamāna: ambhasi āmapātra

Sādhāraņa Dharma: vināsam vrajati

Upamāvācaka: iva

Note:—In d, ambhasi is used as the restrictive adjective of the Upamāna āmapātra. In the Upamāna itself, the adjective āma corresponds to lobhātpratigraha in the Upameya. The conditioning of the word expressive of Upamāna by the word ambhasi is adopted by the author to make the Upamāna suitable in the context. If it is dropped āmapātra cannot serve as the Upamāna in the present case as āmatva by itself does not lead to destruction. Disagreement in gender exists between the Upameya lobhātpratigrahakrt vipra (masculine) and the Upamāna (ambhasi) āmapātram (neuter).

(34) श्राविरूप नर (and विभावन)

A man of impure (kalusa) origin (yoni), who belongs not to any caste (varnāpeta), (but whose character is) not known (avijnāta), who is like Anārya having the appearance of an Ārya, one may discover (vibhāvayet) by his acts (X—57).

Upameya: avijñāta

Upamāna: Āryarūpa nara,

Sādhāraņa Dharma: vibhāvana,

Upamāvācaka: iva,

Note:—In this Upamā, āryarūpa in the Upamāna corresponds to avijāāta in the Upameya; nara is to be taken twice i.e. both in the Upameya and the Upamāna. Here varnāpeta and kaluşayonija of the Upameya and anārya of the Upamāna are predicative adjectives. Here iva instead of directly coming after the Upamāna nara comes after its predicative adjective āryarūpa.

- (35) इत्या and द्विजाति See. No. 111 below
- (36) इन्द्र (and ग्रमिवर्षण)

As Indra sends copius rain during four months (caturo māsān), of the Rainy Season (vārṣikan) even so let the king, taking upon himself the indravrata i.e. the office of Indra, shower benefits on his kingdom (IX—304).

Upameya: prākaraņika nṛpa,

Upamāna: Indra,

Sādhāraņa Dharma: abhivarṣaṇa,

Upamāvācaka: yathā—tathā,

Note:—Here vārṣikānścaturo māsān is a restrictive attribute in the Upamāna-vākya and perhaps it suggests a corresponding restriction in the showering of gifts by the king only on appropriate occasions. For a similar adjective see aṣtau māsān in No. 28 above. The common property is expressed twice in keeping with the two sentences that go to form the Upamā. As the stanza seeks to give advice to the king (the Upameya) the common property going with him namely abhivarṣet is a potential form. This gives rise to disagreement in vidhi or mood.

'indravratam' in d is an instance of Nidarśanā according to 'abhāvān vastusambandhah upamāparikalpakah' (Mammata). This makes the stanza an instance of Sankara of Upamā and Nidarśanā.

(37) इच्च and ख

As the isu i.e. arrow, shot (viddhah) by (a hunter) who afterward hits (anuvidhyatah) a wounded (deer) (viddham) in the wound i.e. khe (made by another) is shot in vain, even so that seed (bijam) sown on another's wife (paraparigraha), is quickly lost (to the sower) (IX—43).

Upameya: bija and paraparigraha

Upamāna: işu and kham Sādhāraṇa Dharma: nasyati Upamāvācaka: yathā—tathā

Note:-The Upamā contains a double Upamāna. In the Upameya-vākya the words corresponding to viddhah on the one hand (i.e. ksiptam), and to viddhamanuviddhyatah (i.e. ksiptamanukşipatah) on the other the Upamāna-vākya, are employed even though they seem to be intended. So that the meaning seems to be that the bijaksepa of a man upon another's wife which follows the bijaksepa of the legitimate husband is useless. The word kha in this verse evidently refers to the wound made by the dart on a mrga as is clear from 'salyavato mrgam' in verse 44 of d the same Adhyāya immediately below and The Upamāna işu is here corresponds to paraparigraha. restricted by the additional words 'viddhamanuviddhyatah' and suggest a corresponding restriction in the Upameya (as is indicated above). Here the Sādhāraņa Dharma is repeated twice in keeping with the two sentences that go to form the Upama. The repetition is exact.

(38) ईरिख and बन्तु and बीज see No. 151 below.

(39) उदक and दृतिपाद

But when one among all the organs slips away (from control), thereby (man's) wisdom (prajñā) slips away from him, even as udaka i.e. water (flows) through the one (open) foot namely pāda of a (water-carrier's) skin i.e. drli (II—99).

Upameya: prajītā and indriya Upamāna: udaka and drtipāda Sādhāraņa Dharma: kṣarati

Note:—This is a double Upamāna. Here the poet has conceived all indriyas as a group and he wants to say that the whole group suffers when one even of them misbehaves. Here Upameya is used in the instrumental (tena i.e. kṣaratā indriyena) and Upamāna is put in the ablative (dṛteḥ pādāt) as kṣaratī can go with either of these cases (tena or tasmāt kṣaratī). This is exactly the opposite of enasah (Upameya) and tvacā (Upamāna) in No. 23 above. There is disagreement in gender between the Upameya prajūā (feminine) and the corresponding Upamāna udakam (neuter). The same is true of the Upameya indriyam (neuter) and the corresponding Upamāna dripāda (masculine).

(40) उदक i.e. अम्बु (and अदोषभाक्त) (X-103)

Upameya: te i.e. Vipras mentioned in c

Upam na: ambu

Sādhāraṇa Dharma: na doṣo bhavati

Upamāvācaka: sama

Note:-For the details of the Upamā see No. 4 above.

- (41) उदस i.e. तीय and श्रादित्य and रश्मिन् and समुद्र See No. 28 above
- (42) उदक i.e. अम्मस् and वृत्तविन्दु See No. 81 below.
- (43) उदक i.e. अम्भस् and तैलिनिन्दु See No. 99 below.
- (44) उदक i.e. वारि and नर See No. 120 below.
- (45) उपनास (and पुण्यानहत्न)

He who performs the vow (of studentship) shall constantly subsist on alms, (but) not eat the food of one (person) only (eka); the subsistence of a student on begged food is declared to be equal (in merit) to upavāsa i.e. fasting (II—188).

Upameya: bhaikṣeṇa vṛtti

Upamāna: upavāsa ·

Sādhāraṇa Dharma: puṇyāvahatva (lupta)

Upamāvācaka: sama

Note:—This is Ārthī Samāsagā Dharmaluptā Upamā. It is Dharmaluptā because the dharma i.e. common property namely punyāvahatva is not expressed i.e. is lupta. In a work on Dharmaśāstra, pāpāvahatva and punyāvahatva are expected to be supplied at proper places.

(46) उष्ट्र (and उत्पादकस्य प्रजाभागित्वाभाव) (IX-48).

Upameya: anyānganā

Upamāna: ustra (belonging to the others)

Sādhāraņa Dharma: notpādakah prajābhāgī

Upamāvācaka: yathā-tathā

Note:-For the details of the Upamā see No. 9 above.

(47) ऊषर and (शुभ) बीज

Where merit and wealth are not (obtained by teaching) nor (even) due (tadvidha lit. of that type) obedience in such (soil) i.e. to such a person, sacred knowledge must not be uttered just as good seed i.e. śubham bījam (must) not (be thrown) on ūṣara i.e. barren soil (II—112).

Upameya: vidyā and the pupil without dharmārtha or śuśrūṣā

Upamāna: śubham bīja and ūṣāra Sādhāraṇa Dharma: na vaktavyā

Upamāvācaka: iva

Note:—Here also a double Upamāna is present. The Sādhāraṇa Dharma is here conceived as dropping, giving or employing. This can be expressed in two different ways according to the nature of the associate. In the case of Upamāna namely—śubham bīja it becomes vaptavyam, in case of the Upameya namely vidyā it is vaktavyā. The poet has chosen the latter instead of using the common expression such as dātavya. Even then the lingabheda would remain, which is due to the choice of a passive construction instead of the active one on the part of the poet. As it is, however, the Sādhāraṇa Dharma is not really so; it only goes with the Upameya.

(48) ऊषर i.e. ईरिया and वप्तु and बीज See No. 151 below.

(49) ऋतु and ऋतुलिङ

As at the change of seasons (rtuparyaye) each season i.e. rtavah (lit. all seasons) verily of its own accord assumes its distinctive marks i.e. rtulingas, even so corporeal beings (resume in new births) their (appointed) course of action (I—30).

Upameya: dehin and karmāni Upamāna: rtu and rtulingāni

Sādhāraņa Dharma: svāni svāni abhipadyante

Upamāvācaka: yathā—tathā

Note:—This Upamā contains a double Upamāna. Here rtuparyaye is a restrictive adjective of the Upamāna; it suggests a corresponding attribute i.e. srstyantare in the Upameya. Cf. Rāghavānanda's explanation—'tathā svasvakarmāni dehinah srstty-antare prapadyante'.

- (50) ऋतुलिङ्ग and ऋतु see No. 49 above.
- (51) 現明 see No. 149 below.

(52) एथस् and विह्न see No. 6 above.

(52A) श्रीपल प्लव and उदके तरन see No. 143 below as well as No. 19 above.

(53) श्रौरस (पुत्र) (and धनहरख)

A son (legally) begotten (jātah) on such an appointed female (niyuktāyām) shall inherit like a legitimate son of the body

i.e. aurasah; for that seed and the produce belong according to the law to the owner of the soil (IX-145).

Upameya: niyuktāyām jāta putra,

Upamāna: aurasa,

Sādhāraņa Dharma: (dhanam) haret,

Upamāvācaka: yathā.

Note:—Here tathā which should have been mentioned with the Upameya is dropped owing to the inversion of the usual order of the Upamāna and the Upameya. For such an omission of tathā see Nos. 67 & 218 below.

(54) कन्न and निर्दात with धान्य

As the weeder i.e. nirdātr plucks up the weeds i.e. kakṣa and preserves the corn i.e. dhānya, even so let the king protect his kingdom and destroy his opponents (VII—110).

Upameya: nrpa, paripanthin and rāṣṭra Upamāna: nirdāṭr, kakṣa and dhānya Sādhārana Dharma: uddhṛṭya rakṣaṇam

Upamāvācaka: yatha—tathā.

Note:—In the Upamāna kakṣasyoddharaṇam precedes dhānyasya rakṣaṇam; while in the Upameya the hanana of paripanthinah succeeds or follows the rakṣaṇa of rāṣṭra. Besides the destruction of kakṣa and the paripanthin is expressed by means of two synonymous words uddharati and hanyāt while the protection is mentioned by the same root rakṣa. In the Upamāna, kakṣam which corresponds to paripanthinah differs from the latter both in point of number and gender. As the stanza seeks to give advice to the King, the common properties, namely rakṣet and hanyāt that go with him are put in potential while the words corresponding to these in the Upamāna-vākya namely uddharati and rakṣati are in the present tense. Hence the vidhibheda.

(55) काष्ठ (and चित्तौ उत्सर्जन)

Leaving the dead body on the ground like kāṣṭha i.e. a log of wood, or loṣṭa, i.e. a cold of earth, the relatives depart with averted faces, but spiritual merit i.e. (Dharma) follows him (i.e. the soul) (IV—241).

Upameya: mṛta śarīra

Upamāna: (i) kāṣṭha and (ii) loṣṭa

Sādhāraņa Dharma: kṣitau utsarjanam

Upamāvācaka: sama

Note:—This is Mālopamā as kāṣṭha and loṣṭa i.e. two are given as Upamānas for the Upameya mṛṭa śarīra.

Also see No. 175 A below.

(56) कूम and সক

His enemy must not know his weakness, but he must know the weaknesses of his enemy, as the kūrma or tortoise (hides its aigāni) i.e. limbs, even so let him secure (gūhet) the members i.e. aigas (of his government against treachery), let him protect his own weak points (VII—105).

Upameya: prākaraņika rājan and anga

Upamāna: kūrma and anga Sādhāraņa Dharma: gūhanam

Upamāvācaka: iva

Note:—Here there is Śleṣa in the Upamāna namely anga. When construed with the Upameya namely $r\bar{a}jan$, it refers to the seven members of his i.e. a king's government and with Upamāna namely $k\bar{u}rma$ it refers to its limbs. Hence angani is mentioned only once.

(57) (नदी-) कूल and बृच

He who leaves his body (deha), (be it by necessity) as a vrkṣa i.e. tree (does) the nadī-kūla i.e. the river-bank (or) (freely) like a śakuni i.e. bird (that) quits a vrkṣa i.e. tree is freed from grāha i.e. (dreadful) shark (i.e. misery of this world) (VI—78).

Upameya: prākaranika yati and his deha

Upamāna: (i) vrkṣa and (nadī-)kūla and (ii) śakuni and vrkṣa

Sādhāraņa Dharma: tyāga (tyajan)

Upamavacaka: yathā-tathā in both (i) and (ii)

Note:—The stanza gives two pairs of double Upamānas. Once the prākarņika yati and his deha are compared with vrkṣa and (nādī-)kūla and secondly with śakuni and vrkṣa. Here tyāga which is the Sādhāraṇa Dharma is compulsory in the first case and voluntary in the latter. As these Upamās are expressed with two independent sentences, the Upamāvācaka yathā is mentioned twice. The two pairs of Upamānas make the stanza an instance of Mālopamā.

"krechrāt grāhāt' in d stands for excessive troubles in life i.e. samsārakasta. This is Atisayokti of the first kind which is defined by Mammata as 'nigīryādhyavasānam tu prakrtasya parena yat'.

The stanza is, in fact, an instance of Samsṛṣṭi of Mālopamā and Atiśayokti.

(58) कृत्या (and समन्ततः विनाश)

The houses on which female relations (jāmayaļı) not being duly honoured, pronounce a curse, perish completely like those that are destroyed by kṛtyā i.e. magic (III—58).

Upameya: jāmišaptāni gehāni Upamāna: kṛtyāhatāni gehāni

Sādhāraņa Dharma: samantatah vinasyanti

Upamāvācaka: iva

Note:—Ultimately jāmisāpa is compared with krtyā in point of effectiveness. Upamāvācaka iva has come after the adjective of the Upamāna (gehāni), which is to be supplied from the first half of the stanza.

- (59) कृष्णवत्मेन् see No. 3 above
- (60) क्षौम (and शुद्धि)

A man who knows (the law) must purify conch-shells, horn, bone and ivory like ksauma i.e. linen cloth or with a mixture of cow's urine and water (V—121).

Upameyas: śańkha, śrnga, asthi and dantamaya

Upamāna: ksauma

Sādhārana Dharma: śuddhih kāryā

Upamāvācaka: vat

Note:—Here many Upameyas are compared with a single Upamāna. For a similar comparison see Nos. 63, 66, 91 and 114 below.

- (61) ন্ধ and হয় see No. 37 above.
- (62) ग्रह (and बृत्ति)

If his teacher's teacher is near, let him behave (towards him) as towards his own Guru i.e. teacher; but let him, unless he has received permission from his teacher, not salute venerable persons of his own (family) (II—205).

Upameya: guroh guru,

Upamāna: Guru,

Sādhāraņa Dharma: vṛttimācaret,

Upamāvācaka: vat,

Note:—The Upamā is Śrautī Taddhitagā Upamā in accordance with the Sūtra 'tatra tasyeva'. For a similar Upamā see No. 63 below.

(63) गुरु (and वृत्ति)

Towards his betters (śreyahsu) let him always behave as towards his Guru i.e. teacher, likewise towards sons of his teachers (guruputreşu), born by wives of equal caste (āryeşu lit. noble) and towards the teacher's relatives (bandhuşu) both on the side of the father and of the mother (II—207).

Upameyas: śreyānsah, āryāh guruputrāh and guroh svabāndhavāh

Upamāna: Guru,

Sādhāraņa Dharma: vrttim samācaret,

Upamāvācaka: vat,

Note:—Here also the Upamā is Śrautī Taddhitagā in keeping with 'tatra tasyeva'. See No. 62 above. Here many Upameyas are compared with a single Upamāna. For a similar comparison see No. 60 above as well as Nos. 66, 91 and 114 below.

(64) गुरु (and मानाहर्दि)

The son of the teacher who imparts instruction (in his father's stead), whether younger or of equal age or a student at the time of sacrifices (or other Angas), deserves the same respect or honour as Guru i.e. the teacher (II—208).

Upameya: adhyāpayan gurusuta,

Upamāna: Guru,

Sādhārana Dharma: mānamarhati,

Upamāvācaka: vat,

(65) गुरु (and प्रतिपृड्यत्व)

The wives of the teacher, who belong to the same caste, must be treated as respectfully as 'Guru i.e. the teacher; but those who belong to a different caste, must be honoured by rising and salutation (II—210).

Upameya: savarņāķ guruyoşitaķ,

Upamāna: Guru,

Sādhārana Dharma: pratipūjyatva,

Upamāvācaka: vat,

Note:—There is disagreement in number as well as gender between the Upameya guruyoşitah and Upamana guru.

(66) गुरु (and वृत्ति)

(A perpetual student) must, if his teacher dies, serve his son (provided he be) endowed with good qualities, or his widow, or his Sapinda, in the same manner as Guru i.e. the teacher (II—247).

Upameyas: guṇānvita guruputra, gurudārāḥ and (guroḥ) sapiṇḍa,

Upamāna: Guru,

Sādhāraņa Dharma: vrttimācaret,

Upamāvācaka: vat,

Note:—This is a Śrautī Taddhitagā Upamā formed according to the Sūtra 'tatra tasyeva'. See Nos. 62 and 63 above. Here many Upameyas are compared with a single Upamāna. For such a comparison see Nos. 60 and 63 above as well Nos. 91 and 114 below.

(67) गुरु (and नित्यसेवन)

That (king) who will coerce i.e. keep under check both his (disloyal) subjects and the army of the foe, let him ever serve with every effort like a Guru or the teacher (VII—175).

Upameya: balī nṛpa from verse 174,

Upamāna: Guru,

Sādhāraņa Dharma: nityam upaseveta,

Upamāvācaka: yathā,

Note:—Tathā, which should have been mentioned with the Upameya is dropped due to the inversion of the usual order of the Upamāna and the Upameya. For a similar omission of tathā see No. 53 above as well as Nos. 123 and 218 below.

(68) गुरु (and वृत्ति)

But when the purpose of the appointment to (cohabit with) (niyogārtha) the widow has been attained in accordance with the law, those two shall behave towards each other like guru i.e., a father (and snuṣā i.e. daughter-in-law) (IX—62).

Upameya: vidhavāyām niyuktah,

Upamāna: guru,

Sādhāraṇa Dharma: vṛtti (i.e. ācaraṇa),

Upamāvācaka: vat,

Note:—The expression 'snuṣāvat' in c contains another Upamā which is a complement of this Upamā, for which see No. 224 below.

- (69) गुरुतल्प see No. 71 below.
- (70) गुरुपत्नी (and सम्पूज्यत्व)

A maternal aunt, the wife of a maternal uncle, a mother-in-law and a paternal aunt must be honoured like gurupatnī i.e. the wife of one's teacher, they are equal to gurubhāryā i.e. the wife of one's teacher (II—131).

Upameyas: mātṛṣvasā, mātulānī, śvaśrū and pitṛṣvasā,

Upamāna: gurupatnī in c and gurubhāryā in d,

Sādhāraṇa Dharma: sampūjyatva in the Upamā in c and ādaraṇīyatva (lupta) in the Upamā in d,

Upamāvācaka: vat in the former and sama in the latter,

Note:—Upamā in c where gurupatnī is the Upamāna is rather the result of the Upamā in d where gurubhāryā is the Upamāna. The latter, however, is Ārthī Vākyagā Dharmaluptā. It is Dharmaluptā as there the dharma namely ādaranīyatva is not expressly stated (i.e. is to be understood). Here many Upameyas are compared with a single Upamāna. For such a comparison see Nos. 60, 63 & 66 above.

(71) गुरुपरनी i.e. गुरुतल्प (and पापावहत्व)

Carnal intercourse (retalseka) with sisters by the same mother, with (unmarried) maidens, with females of lowest castes, with wives of a friend or of a son, they declare to be equal to gurutalpa i.e. violation of a Guru's bed (XI—58).

Upameya: retaḥseka, Upamāna: gurutalpa,

Sādhāraņa Dharma: pāpāvahatva (lupta),

Upamāvācaka: sama,

Note:—This is Ārthī Samāsagā Dharmaluptā Upamā. It is Dharmaluptā because the common property namely pāpāvahatva is not expressed. In a work on Dharmaśāstra, pāpāvahatva and punyāvahatva are not expected to be expressed.

(72) गुरुभार्यों (and ब्रादर्गीयत्व) See No. 70 above.

(73) गो (and उत्पादकस्य प्रजामागित्वामाव) IX-48.

Upameya: anyānganā,

Upamāna: gauḥ (belonging to others),

Sādhāraņa Dharma: yathā-tathā,

Note:-For the details of the Upamā see No. 9 above.

(74) गो (cow) (and सबःफलनाभाव)

Unrighteousness (adharma), practised in this world, does not at once produce its fruit, like gauh i.e. a cow (or the earth), but advancing slowly, it cuts off the roots of him who committed it (IV—172).

Upameya: adharma,

Upamāna: gauḥ,

Sādhāraņa Dharma: na sadyaḥ phalati,

Upamāvācaka: iva,

Note:—Here gauh, the Upamāna may either be taken to mean a cow or the earth. Neither of these are able to yield their expected fruit within a short time. The cow yields her expected reward i.e. milk only after she brings forth a calf. Similarly the earth requires a good deal of care and work after the seed is sown into it.

Kullūka, however, takes this simile as an instance of Vaidharmyena Upamā because he thinks that gauh means either a milch cow or a full-grown bull.

(75) (श्रन्था) गो (and एकवेश्मस्थिति),

Sambhojanī Daksinā i.e. a gift of food consumed (with friends and relatives) by twice-born men (of course for making friendships), is said to be one which goes to the Piśācas; it remains (āste) in this (world) (i.e. iha) alone (eva) like andhā gauh i.e. a blind cow in one stable (veśman) (III—141).

Upameya: Sambhojanī Dakṣiṇā,

Upamāna: andhā gauḥ,

Sādhāraņa Dharma: ekavesmani i.e. (ekatra eva) āste,

Upamāvācaka: iva,

Note:—Here the Sādhāraṇa dharma is 'ekatraivāste' i.e. 'remains confined to one place' i.e. 'does not move to other places.' This is expressed by ihaiva (i.e. in this world alone, thus excluding svarga for which dakṣiṇā is generally given) in the Upameya and by ekaveşmani in the Upamāna. Here the Upamāna is restricted by an adjective namely andhā. The ultimate intention of the poet is to compare the sambhojanītva with andhatva.

(76) (पङ्को) गो (and सीदन)

The kingdom of that monarch, who looks on (paśyataḥ) while a Śūdra settles the law, will sink (low), like gauḥ i.e. cow in a morass i.e. paṅka (VIII—21).

Upameya: rāṣṭra,

Upamāna: panke gauh,

Sādhāraņa Dharma: sīdati,

Upamāvācaka: iva,

Note:—Here panka is the restrictive or conditioning attribute of the Upamāna gauh which makes it correspond with the Upameya. From the word paśyatah it seems that the poet has at the back of his mind the comparison of the king with a cow-boy who helplessly looks at the calamity.

(77) 前 and 前 II-158

Upameya: anṛca vipra and śrautasmārta karma (lupta)

Upamāna: gauḥ and gauḥ,

Sādhāraṇa Dharma: aphalatva,

Upamāvācaka: yathā-tathā,

Note:-For the details of the Upamā see No. 10 above.

(78) गो and पङ्क

Hence an ignorant (man) should be afraid of accepting any pratigraha i.e. presents; for by reason of a very small (gift) even, a fool sinks (into hell) as a gauh i.e. cow in panka i.e. a morass. (IV—191).

Upameya: avidvān and his svalpaka pratigraha,

Upamāna: gauḥ and panka,

Sādhāraņa Dharma: sīdati,

Upamāvācaka: iva,

Note:—This Upamā contains a double Upamāna. Here svalpaka pratigraha corresponds to panka and is the cause of sīdana like the latter. The correspondence in case between panka and svalpaka pratigraha could not be maintained owing to the difference between the two meanings, primary and secondary of the word sīdati. The secondary meaning of sīdati namely 'failure' requires the instrumental case while the primary sense namely 'sinking' requires the locative.

(79) गो (earth) (and सव:फलनाभाव) IV-172.

Upameya: adharma,

Upamāna: gauh (earth),

Sādhāraņa Dharma: na sadyaḥ phalati,

Upamāvācaka: iva,

Note:—The Upamā is based on the interpretation put on the word gauh alternatively understood in the sense of earth. For the Upamā see No. 74 above.

.(80) ग्रह and नद्यत्र

And in each town let him appoint one sarvārthacintaka i.e. superintendent of all affairs, elevated in rank (uccaiḥ sthāna or sthiti), formidable (ghorarūpa) resembling a planet i.e. graha among stars i.e. nakṣatras (VII—121).

Upameya: sarvārthacintaka and te (sarve) i.e. his subordinates,

Upamāna: graha and nakṣatra,

Sādhāraņa Dharma: uccaiḥ sthiti and ghorarupa,

Upamaāvācaka- iva,

Note:—The Upamā contains a double Upamāna. Here teṣām (referring to the subordinate officers) is to be supplied from the previous stanza. Here the officer i.e. the sarvārthacintaka is compared with graha and his subordinates who are to be understood by the word teṣām supplied from the previous stanza, with nakṣatras. The Upamāna nakṣatrāni (neuter) differs from the corresponding Upameya i.e. te sarve (masculine) in point of gender. This discrepancy i.e. the use of neuter gender in the Upamāna, however, seems to be intentional and is meant to convey the relative unimportance of the subordinates.

(81) घृतविन्दु and अम्भस्

But the fame of the king who acts in a contrary way or manner and who does not subdue himself, diminishes in extent (sanksipyate) among men like ghrtabindu i.e. a drop of clarified butter in ambhas i.e. eater (VII—34).

A STATE OF A STATE OF

Upameya: nrpateh yasas and loka,

Upamāna: ghrtabindu and ambhas,

Sādhārana Dharma: sanksipyate,

Upamāvācāka: iva,

Note:—Here a double Upamāna is present. There is disagreement in respect of gender between both the Upameyas and their corresponding Upamānas.

(82) चक्र (and नित्यसंसारण)

This one pervades all created beings in the five forms, and constantly makes them, by means of both, growth and decay, revolve like cakra i.e. the wheels (of a chariot) (XII—124).

Upameya: bhūtāni, Upamāna: cakra,

Sādhārana Dharma: nityam samsārayati,

Upamāvācaka: vat,

Note:—There is disagreement in respect of number between the Upameya namely bhūtāni (plural) and the Upāmana namely cakram (singular).

(83) चन्द्र and मानव

He is a king, taking upon himself the candravrata i.e. the office of the Moon (lit. being a cāndravratika), in whom (i.e. at whose appearance) his subjects rejoice as men i.e. mānavāh feel on seeing the paripūrna candra i.e. the full moon (IX—309).

Upameya- nṛpa and prakṛtayaḥ,

Upamāna: candra and mānavāḥ, Sādhāraṇa Dharma: hṛṣyanti,

Upamāvācaka: yathā-tathā,

Note:—The Upamā contains a double Upamāna. The expression candram dṛṣtvā in the Upamāna-vākya corresponds to yasmin in the Upameya-vākya, so that yasmin is equivalent to yam dṛṣtvā. This gives rise to the irregularity namely the Upamāna candra being put in the accusative case and the Upameya yasmin (referring to nṛpa in d) in the locative.

'cāndravratika' in d is an instance of Nidarsanā. This makes the stanza an example of Sankara of Upamā and Nidarsanā.

(84) चमस (and शौच)

His vessels shall not be made of metal, they shall be free from fractures, it is ordained that they shall be cleansed with water, like (the cups called) Camasa, at a sacrifice (VI—53).

Upameya: ataijasāni and nirvraņāni pātrāņi,

Upamānā: camasa,

Sādhāraņa Dharma: adbhih śaucam,

Upamāvācaka: iva,

Note:—There is disagreement in point of gender between the Upameya pātrāni which is neuter while the Upamāna camasānām is masculine.

- (85) ব্যৱাল See No. 155 below.
- · (86) चैल (and शुद्धि)

Skins and (objects) made of split bamboo must be cleansed like caila i.e. clothes, (vegetable, roots and fruit like dhānya i.e. grain) (IV—119).

Upameya: carman and vaidala,

Upamāna: caila,

Sādhāraņa Dharma: śuddhi,

Upamāvācaka: vat,

Note:—Here two Upameyas are compared with a single Upamāna. For a similar comparison see No. 90 below.

For another Upamā contained in cd, see No. 114 below.

(87) चौर (and किल्बिष)

If a man is killed (due to inattention and the like on the part of the prājaka i.e. driver), his (i.e. prajakā's) guilt (kilbiṣa) will be at once the same as (that of) a caura i.e. a thief, for large animals such as cows, elephants, camels or horses, half of that (VIII—296).

Upameya: prājaka from verse 294,

Upamāna: caura,

Sādhāraņa Dharma: kilbişam bhavet,

Upamāvācaka: vat.

(88) चौर (and दएड)

In keeping with this rule, the manager who sells without (the consent of) the owner unknowingly or knowingly deserves punishment similar to that of caura i.e. a thief (VIII—197-200).

Upameya: śāstā, Upamāna: caura,

Sādhārana Dharma: dandamarhati,

Upamāvācaka: vat, . .

Note:—This Śloka is included as it is accepted by Sarvajñanārāyana, Nandana and Rāmacandra. Rāmacandra's commentary runs as follows: anena vidhinā asvāmivikrayam kurvannajñānajūānapūrvakam vā śāstā cauravadvadhamarhati.

(89) चौर (and शास्यत्व or दाप्यत्व)

He who does not return a deposit and he who demands what he never bailed shall both be pushished like a caura i.e. thief, or be compelled to pay a fine extra (to the value of the object or claimed article) (VIII—191).

Upameya: tāvubhau i.e. niksepārpayitā and aniksipya yācitā,

Upamāna: caura,

Sādhāraņa Dharma: śāsyatva or dāpyatva,

Upamāvācaka: vat.

(90) चौर (and शास्यत्व)

Those who are appointed to guard provinces and his vassals who have been ordered (to help), he shall speedily punish like caura i.e. thieves, (if they remain) inactive in attacks (by robbers) (IX—272).

Upameya: rakṣādhikṛta (persons) and sāmanta,

Upamāna: caura,

Sādhāraņa Dharma: śiṣyāt,

Upamāvācaka: iva,

Note:—Here two Upameyas are compared with one Upamāna. For a similar comparison see No. 86 above.

(91) चौर (and इनन)

Those who give (to thieves) fire, food, arms or shelter, and receivers of stolen goods, the ruler shall punish like caura i.e., thieves (IX—278).

Upameya: agnida, bhaktada, śastrāvakāśada and (moṣasya): samnidhātr.

Upamāna: caura,

Sādhāraṇa Dharma: hanyāt,

Upamāvācaka: iva,

Note:—Here also many Upameyas are compared with one-Upamāna.

For a similar comparison see Nos. 60, 63, 66 above as well! as No. 114 below.

: (92) चौर i.e. स्तेन (and दोषभाक्त्व)

A Brāhmana, seeking to obtain property from (a man) who took what was not given to him either by sacrificing from him or by teaching him, is even like a stena i.e. thief (VIII—340).

Upameya: saḥ i.e. lipsāvān Brāhmaņa

Upamāna: stena,

Sādhāraņa Dharma: doṣabhāktva (lupta),

Upamāvācaka: yathā-tathā,

Note:—Here it is possible that the Sādhāraṇa Dharma may be understood from the word adattādāyī i.e. caura which can be supplied from the word adattādāyinaḥ in the first half. But perhaps it is better to supply the word doṣabhāk as the Sādhāraṇa Dharma which is to be considered as lupta. In view of this the Upamā is Śrautī Vākyagā Dharmaluptā. It is Dharmaluptā, as the Dharma i.e. the common property namely doṣabhāktva is not expressed.

(93) জঙ্ক (and স্পান্য্যা)

Unless one be asked, one must not explain (anything) to anybody, nor (must one answer) a person who asks improperly; let a wise man, though he knows (the answer), behave among men like a jada i.e. an idiot (II—110).

Upameya: medhāvī,

Upamāna: jada,

Sādhāraṇa Dharma: ācaret,

Upamāvācaka: vat.

(94) जन्तु and बायु

As all living creatures i.e. jantavah subsist by receiving support from air i.e. vāyu, even so (the members of) all orders (āśramāh) subsist by receiving support from the householder (III—77).

Upameya: āśramāh and grhastha,

Upamāna: jantavah and vāyu,

Sādhāraņa Dharma: samāṣritya vartante,

Upamāvācaka: yathā-tathā,

Note:—This Upamā contains a double Upamāna. As the simile is expressed with the help of two independent sentences, the common property namely 'samāṣritya vartante' is expressed twice. The repetition is exact.

(95) इन्लन See No. 4 above.

(96) (उदके) तरन and (श्रीपल) प्लव See No. 143 below.

• ... (97) तृखाम्न (and शमन)

As tṛṇāgni i.e. a fire of dry grass is (unable to consume rihe offerings and is quickly) extinguished even so (is it with) an unlearned Brāhmaṇa, Sacrificial food (havya) must not be given to him, never is (anything) offered in ashes (bhasmani) (III—168).

Upameya: anadhīyāna Brāhmaņa,

. Upamāna: tṛṇāgni,

Sādhārana Dharma: śāmyati,

Upamāvācaka: iva,

Note:—Corresponding to the restricting adjective anadhiyāna in the Upameya we have trṇa meaning tṛṇakṛta in the Upamāna tṛṇāgṇi. In cd, we have a Dṛṣṭānta based on Vaidharmya, where the anadhīyāna Brāhmaṇa is compared with bhasman and the gift of a havya to him is compared with havana in bhasman.

The stanza thus becomes an instance of Samsrsti of Upamā, and Drstānta.

(98) तेजस् and विह्न and एथस् see No. 6 above.

(99) तेलविन्दु and अम्भस्

The fame of a king who behaves thus, even though he subsists by gleaning, is spread in the world like a tailabindu i.e. a drop of oil in ambhas i.e. water (VII—33).

Upameya: nṛpateḥ yaśas and loka,

Upamāna: tailabindu and ambhas,

Sādhāraņa Dharma: vistīryate,

Upamāvācaka: iva.

Note:—This Upamā contains a double Upamāna. There is disagreement in point of gender between the Upameya yasah (neuter) and the Upamāna tailabinduh (masculine), as well as the Upameya loka (masculine) and the Upamāna ambhas (neuter).

(100) तोय and श्रादित्य and रश्मिन् and समुद्र see No. 28

(101) त्रिदण्ड (and श्रतिरिक्तवाभाव)

Yet in a kingdom (rājya) containing seven constituent parts (saptānga), which is upheld like tridanda i.e. the triple staff (of an ascetic), there is no (single part more important (than the others), by reason of the importance of the qualities of each for the others (IX—296).

Upameya: saptānga rājya,

Upamāna: tridaņda,

Sădhāraņa Dharma: anyonyaguņavaisesyānna kiñcidatiricyate,

Upamāvācaka: vat,

Note:—Here the adjective saptānga of the rājya has its correspondence in the adjective tri of the tridanda. There is disagreement in respect of gender between the Upameya rājya (which is neuter) and the Upamāna tridanda (which is masculine).

(102) त्रिवेदाध्ययन (and स्वर्गसाधन)

As is trivedādhyayana i.e. the study of the three Vedas, so is Dharmaśāstra. (Hence) it should be regularly (niyatam) studied by a Brāhmaṇa who desires to obtain the heavenly world, (I—(11)—105—106).

Upameya: Dharmaśāstra, Upamāna: trivedādhyayana,

Sādhāraṇa Dharma: svargasādhana (lupta),

Upamāvācaka: yathā-tathā,

Note:—Here the Upameya that is mentioned, is only Dharmaśāstra; but as is clear from the Upamāna trivedādhyayana, its adhyayana is meant. The Upamā is Śrautī Vākyagā Dharmaluptā. It is Dharmaluptā because the Dharma namely svargasādhana is not expressed but suggested by the adjective used in case of the Brāhmana viz. "svargamicchatā". The Upamā is included here as the stanza is commented by the commentator Rāmacandra.

- (103) বেৰ and সাহি see Nos. 23 and 24 above.
- (104) ব্যুল and স্বন্ধ see No. 10 above.
- (105) दारु (and भस्मीभवन)

But as ignorant (householder) who accepts gold, land, a horse, a cow, food, a dress, sesamum grains, (or) clarified butter is reduced to ashes like dāru i.e. (a piece of) wood (IV—188).

Upameya: avidvān

Upamānā: dāru,

Sādhāraņa Dharma: bhasmībhavati,

Upamāvācaka: vat.

(106) दासी (and उत्पादकस्य प्रजाभागित्वाभाव) IX-48.

Upameya: anyānganās,

Upamāna: dāsis,

Sādhāraṇa Dharma: notpādakalı prajābhāgī,

Upamāvācaka: yathā-tathā,

Note:-For the details of the Upama see No. 9 above.

(107) दृतिपाद and उदक see No. 39 above.

(108) देव (and मोद)

He who neglects not these three, (even after he has become) a householder, will conquer the three worlds and radiant in body, he will enjoy bliss in heaven like deva i.e. God (II—232).

Upameya: apramādyan gṛhī,

Upāmāna: deva,

Sādhāraņa Dharma: divi modate,

Upamāvācaka: vat.

(109) देव (and उपचर्यत्व)

Though destitute of virtue or seeking pleasure (elsewhere) or devoid of (good) qualities, (yet) a husband must be constantly worshipped as deva or a god by a faithful wife (V—154).

Upameya: pati,

Upamāna: deva,

Sādhāraņa Dharma: upacaryah,

Upamāvācaka: vat.

(110) 実界 See No. 193 below as well as No. 7 above.

(111) द्विजाति and इज्या

For by punishing the wicked and by favouring the virtuous, ikings are constantly sanctified, just as dvijātayaḥ i.e. twice-born amen by ijyās i.e. sacrifices (VIII—311).

Upameya: nrpa and pāpa-nigraha as well as sādhu-sangraha,

Upamāna: dvijāti and ijyā,

Sādhāraņa Dharma: satatam pūyante

Upamāvācaka: iva,

Note:—This Upamā contains a double Upamāna. Here ijyābhiḥ (plural) is the Upamāna for pāpānām nigraha and sādhūnām sangraha. Hence the disagreement in respect of number. There is also disagreement in respect of gender between them as the former is feminine while the latter namely pāpanigraha as welli as sādhusangraha are masculine.

(112) घरा (and भृतधारण)

Just as dharā i.e. the Earth supports all created beings equally, thus is the pārthiva vrata i.e. the vow of the Earth—observed by (a king) who supports all creatures (IX—311).

Upameya: prākaraņika rājan,

Upamāna: dharā,

Sādhāraņa Dharma: bhūtānām dhāraņam,

Upamāvācaka: tathā,

Note:—Here dharā the Upamāna is put in the nominative while being influenced by the words pārthivam vratam in d, the Upamāna rājan which is to be supplied, is put in the genitive case as shown by bibhratah. Here bibhratah is to be taken as the short form of the expression 'yah (rājā) bibhrati tasya'. The construction has thus become anakoluthic.

'pārthivam vratam' in d is an instance if Nidarsanā. The stanza, therefore, becomes an instance of Sankara of Upamā and Nidarsanā.

(113) धात and मल

For as the malas i.e. impurities of dhātus i.e. metallic ores, melted in the blast (of a furnace) (dhmāyamāna), are consumed, even so are the taints of the organs are destroyed through the suppression of the breath (VI—71).

Upamēya: indriya and doşa, Upamāna: dhātu and mala, Sādhāraṇa Dharma: dahyante, Upamāvācaka: yathā—tathā.

Note:—The Upamā contains a double Upamāna. Correspondence between dhmāyamāna (-tva) and prānasya nigraha seems to be intended by the poet. There is disagreement in point of gender between the Upameya indriyam (which is neuter) and the Upamāna dhātu (which is masculine).

(114) धान्य (and शुद्धि)

(Skins and (objects) made of split cane must be cleansed like caila i.e. clothes), vegetables, roots and fruit like dhānya i.e. grain (V—119).

Upameya: śāka, mūla and phala,

Upamāna: dhānya,

Sādhāraṇa Dharma: śuddhi,

Upamāvācaka: vat,

Note:—Here many Upameyas are compared with a single Upamāna. For a similar comparison see Nos. 60, 63, 66 and 91 above.

For another Upamā contained in ab, see No. 86 above.

(115) धान्य and निदीत with कच see No. 54 above.

(116) नचत्र and प्रह see No. 80 above.

(117) नदी i.e. निम्नगा and समुद्र see No. 212 below.

(118) नदी i.e. सिन्धु and समुद्र see No. 213 below.

(118A) नदी-कृल and वृक्त see No. 57 above.

(119) नदीनद and सागर

As nadīnadāh i.e. all rivers, both great and small, find a resting place in sāgara i.e. the ocean, even so men of all orders find protection with householders (VI—90).

Upameya: āśramin and gṛhastha,

Upamāna: nadīnada and sāgara,

Sādhāraņa Dharma: samsthitim yānti,

Upamāvācaka: yathā-tathā,

Note:—This Upamā contains a double Upamāna. The expression nadīnada is here understood as a Samāhāra. As the Upamā, here, is expressed with the help of two independent sentences, the common property is expressed with the help of the identical words, viz. samsthitim yānti.

(119A) श्रार्यरूप नर (and विभावन) see No. 34 above.

(120) (खनित्रेख खनन्) नर and बारि

As the nara i.e. man who digs (i.e. khanan) with a khanitra i.e. a spade (into the ground) obtains vāri i.e. water, even so an obedient (śuśrūṣu) pupil, obtains the knowledge which lies (hidden) in his teacher (II—218).

Upameya: śuśrūṣu (brahmacārī) and gurugatā vidyā,

Upamāna: khanitreņa khanan nara and vāri,

Sādhāraņa Dharma: adhigacchati,

Upamāvācaka: yathā-tathā,

Note:—Here also a double Upamāna is present. The adjective khanitrena khanan in the Upamāna-vākya, corresponds to the adjective śuśrūṣu in the Upameya-vākya; but the substantive mamely brahmacārī in the Upameya-vākya which is in correspondence with nara in the Upamāna-vākya is to be supplied from the context. Correspondence between khanitra and śuśrūṣa (or sevā) is surely intended. Similarly the adjective pṛthvīgatam qualifying vāri in the Upamāna-vākya, which corresponds to gurugatā of vidyā in the Upameya-vākya is also not expressed. Correspondence between guru and pṛthvī is certainly intended. There is also disagreement in point of gender between the Upameya vidyā (which is feminine) and the Upamāna vāri (which is neuter). The Sādhāraṇa Dharma namely adhigacchati is exactly repeated.

- (121) निम्नगा and समुद्र see No. 212 below.
- (122) निर्दोत and कल with धान्य see No. 54 above.
- (123) निर्देश and मृतक

Let him (yati) not desire to die, let him not desire to live, let him wait for (his appointed) time (kāla), as a bhṛtaka i.e. a servant (waits) for nirdeśa i.e. the payment of his wages (VI—45).

Upameya: prākaraņika yati and kāla.

Upamāna: bhṛtaka and nirdeśa,

Sādhāraņa Dharma: pratīkseta,

Upamāvācaka: yathā,

Note:—The Upamā contains a double Upamāna. Here tathā which should have come with the Upameya is dropped owing to the inversion of the usual order. For the dropping of tathā see Nos. 53, 67 above as well as Nos. 152 and 217 below.

- (124) पङ्क and आकाश see No. 25 above.
- (125) पङ्क and गो see No. 78 above.
- (126) (इति-) पाद and उदक see No. 39 above.
- (127) पानक see No. 5 above.
- (128) पितु (and उपजीव्यत्व)

(Or) the eldest alone may take the whole paternal estate, the others shall live under him just as (they lived) under their pitā i.e. father (IX—105).

Upameya: sah i.e. jyeştha,

Upamāna: pitā,

Sādhāraņa Dharma: upajīvyatva,

Upamāvācaka: yathā-tathā.

(129). पितृ (and वित्त)

Let him (the king) cause the annual revenue in his kingdom to be collected by trusty (officials) (āpta), let him obey the sacred law (āmnāya) in (his transactions with) the people, and behave like pitr i.e. a father towards all men (VII—80).

Upameya: rājan from V 79,

Upamāna: pitr,

Sādhāraņa Dharma: varteta,

Upamāvācaka: vat.

(130) पितृ (and वित्त)

If the eldest brother behaves as an eldest brother (ought to do), he (must be treated) like (mātā i.e. a mother) and like pitā i.e. a father, (but if he behaves in a manner unworthy of an eldest brother, he should yet be honoured ike a bandhu i.e. kinsman) (IX—110).

Upameya: jyeşthavrtti jyeştha,

Upamāna: pitr,

Sādhāraņa Dharma: vṛtti (lupta),

Upamāvācaka: iva,

Note:—This is Śrautī Samāsagā Dharmaluptā Upamā. It is Dharmaluptā because the Dharma i.e. the common property namely vrtti (treatment) is not expressed.

The Upamā in māteva (see No. 164 below) makes the first line an instance of Mālopamā while sampujyastu bandhuvat (see No. 146 below) in d contains another Upamā.

(131) पितृ and औरस पुत्र

Having ascertained his learning in the Veda and (the purity of) his conduct, the king shall provide for him means of subsistence in accordance with the sacred law and shall protect him in every way, as a pitā i.e. father (protects) the aurasa putra i.e. lawful son i.e. born of his self (VII—135).

Upameya: rājan and śrotriya from V 133 & 134,

Upamāna: pitr and aurasa putra,

Sādhāraņa Dharma: sarvataḥ samrakṣaṇa,

Upamāvācaka: iva,

Note:—The Upamā contains a double Upamāna. Here the second Upamāna namely putra is conditioned by the word aurasam in order to support the sarvatah samrakṣaṇam which is the Sādhārana Dharma.

(132) पित and पुत्र

As a pitā i.e. father (supports) his putrāḥ i.e. sons, so let the eldest support his younger brothers, and let them also in accordance with the law (dharmataḥ) behave towards their eldest brother as putrāḥ i.e. sons (behave towards him their father) (IX—108).

Upameya: jyeştha and yaviyan bhratr,

Upamāna: pitr and putra, Sādhārana Dharma: pālayet,

Upamāvācaka: iva,

Note:-Here also a double Upamāna is present.

The word 'putravat' in contains another Upamā for which see No. 136 below.

(133) पिशाच (and मांसाशन)

He, who, disregarding the rule (given above) does not eat meat like a piśāca, becomes dear to men and will not be tormented by diseases (V—50).

Upameya: prākaraņika yah,

Upamāna: piśāca, Upamāvācaka: vat,

Note:—This is Upamā, based on Vaidharmya as māmsāšana is undertaken by the piśāca (i.e. the Upamāna), while a person (i.e. the Upameya) not eating it, is praised in the verse.

(134) पुत्तिका and वल्मीक

Giving no pain to any creature, let him (grhastha from the context) slowly accumulate spiritual merit (dharma) for the sake (of acquiring) a companion to the next world, just as puttikāḥ i.e. the white ants (gradually raise their) valmīk 1 i.e. ant-hill (IV—238).

Upameya: Prākaraņika (gṛhastha) and dharma,

Upamāna: puttikā and valmīka,

Sādhārana Dharma: śanaih samcinuyāt,

Upamāvācaka,: iva,

Note:—The simile contains a double Upamāna. There is disagreement in respect of number and gender between the Upamāna puttikāḥ (which is plural & feminine) and the Upameya prākaraṇika gṛhastha (which is singular and masculine).

(135) पुत्र (and धनस्वीकारयोग्यत्व)

(As son is even as good as oneself), (such) a daughter is equal to a putra i.e. son; how can another (heir) take the estate (dhana) while such (an appointed daughter who is even) oneself lives (IX—130).

Upameya: duhitā, Upamāna: putra,

Sādhāraņa Dharma: dhanasvīkārayogyatva (lupta),

Upamāvācaka: sama,

Note:—There is disagreement in point of gender between the Upamāna putra and Upameya duhitā. The Upamā is Ārthī Vākyagā Dharmaluptā. It is Dharmaluptā because the Sādhāraṇa Dharma namely dhanasvīkārayogyatva is not expressed. In fact mere Upamā is not intended here. A representative i.e. pratinidhi rather than a standard of comparison i.e. Upamāna is sought to be conveyed by the word sama.

For the Upamā contained in a, see No. 26 above.

(136) पुत्र (and वृत्ति)

(As a pitā i.e. father (supports) his putras i.e. sons, so let the eldest (jyeştha) support his younger brothers and) let them also in accordance with law behave towards their eldest brother as putras i.e. sons) behave towards their father) (IX—108).

Upameya: yavīyān bhrātṛ,

Upamāna: putra,

Sādhārana Dharma: varteran,

Upamāvācaka: vat,

Note:—For the Upama contained in a, see No. 132 above.

पुत्र and पितृ see No. 132 above.

पूर्वपन्न and अपर्पन्न see No. 12 above. (138)

पौत्र (and सन्तारण) (139)

Between pautra i.e. a son's son and dauhitra i.e. the son of a daughter there exists in this world no difference; for even the son of a daughter saves him (who has no sons) in the next world like pautra i.e. a son's son (IX-139).

Upameya: dauhitra,

Upamāna: pautra.

Sādhārana Dharma: amutra santāraņa,

Upāmāvācaka: vat.

(140) प्राणिन, and शरीरकर्षण

As the lives of prāṇins i.e. living creatures are destroyed by śarīrakarṣaṇa i.e. tormenting their bodies even so the lives of kings are destroyed by rāṣṭrakarṣaṇa i.e. oppressing their kingdoms (VII-112).

Upameya: rājan and rāṣṭrakarṣaṇa,

Upamāna: prānin and śarīrakarṣana,

Sādhāraņa Dharma: prāņāḥ kṣīyante,

Upamāvācaka: yathā—tathā,

Note:-This Upamā contains a double Upamāna. As the Upamā is expressed with the help of two independent sentences, the words expressive of the common property namely prānāh kṣiyante are exactly repeated in both the sentences.

(141) प्रियद्वेष्यौ and यम see No. 173 below.

(142) प्रेत (and पर्यंसन)

(In case of such a patita i.e. outcaste (XI-182), A female slave shall upset (paryasyet) with her foot a pot filled with water, in case of a preta i.e. a dead person; (his Sapindas) as well as the Samānodakas shall be impure for a day and night (XI—183).

Upameya: patita from verse 182,

Upamāna: preta,

Sādhārana Dharma: ghatasya paryasana,,

Upamāvācaka: vat,

Note:—The idea in the verse is that a patita is to be treated like a preta i.e. dead person; paryasana implying a total severence of his from all relations. Thus ghatasya paryasana stands for a complete break of association with a patita.

(143) (श्रीपल) प्लव and (६दके) तरन्

As he who (attempts to) cross water i.e. (udake) taran in an (aupala) plava i.e. a boat of stone sinks (to the bottom) even so do the ignorant donor and the receiver (dātr and pratīcchaka) sink low (IV—194).

Upameya: dātṛ (giver) and pratīcchaka (receiver),

Upamāna: (udake) taran and (aupala) plava,

Sādhāraṇa Dharma: nimajjana,

Upamāvācaka: yathā-tathā,

Note:—This Upamā contains a double Upamāna. Here dātṛpṛratīcchakau is the Upameya and udake taran and aupala plava is the double Upamāna. Out of these, dātā corresponds to udake taran and the pṛratīcchaka with aupala plava. In the Upamāna, one of them is mentioned in the instrumental while the other is in the nominative. On the other hand, in the Upameya, both are put in the nominative (in a compound). In the Upamāna, instrumental is used to show the karaṇatva of the plava. In the Upameya, a similar karaṇatva of pṛratīcchaka in spite of the nominative case being actually used, is thereby suggested.

(144) दक (and अर्थचिन्तन)

Let him $(r\bar{a}j\bar{a})$ plan his undertakings (patiently meditating) like a baka i.e. heron; (like a simha i.e. lion, let him put forth his strength or show his valour; like a vrka i.e. a wolf, let him snatch (his prey) like a sasa i.e. hare, let him double in retreat (VII—106).

Upameya: prākaranika rājan,

Upamāna: (i) baka, (ii) simha, (iii) vrka and (iv) śaśa,

Sādhārana Dharma: arthacintana in (i) parākrama in (ii) avalumpana in (iii) and vinispatana in (iv),

Upamāvācaka: vat in all,

Note:—The stanza is an instance of Śrautī Taddhitagā Mālopamā where one and the same Upameya namely rājan is compared with four Upamānas namely baka, simha, vṛka and śaśa, there being an independent common property or Sādhāraṇa Dharma in case of each of the Upamānas. Thus in case of baka, the Śadhāraṇa Dharma is arthacintana, in case of simha it is parā-krama, in that of vṛka it is avalumpana and finally in that of śaśa it is vinispatana. The Upamāvācaka vat makes the Upamā Taddhitagā. As the stanza contains an advice given to the king, the words expressive of the common properties are put in the potential.

Also see Nos. 193, 202 and 215 below.

(145) बक (and बृत्ति)

Let him not honour, even by a greeting, heretics, men who follow forbidden occupations (men who live like cats i.e. baidāla-vratikas) rogues (śaṭha), logicians (arguing against the Veda) and bakavṛtti persons i.e. those who live like herons (IV—30).

(145A) বন্ধ (and সর)

(A man) who knows the law should not offer even water to a Brāhmana (who acts like a cat i.e. baidālavratika), nor to a Brāhmana who is bakavratika i.e. who acts like a heron, nor to one who is unacquainted with the Vedas (IV—192).

Upameya: vṛtti or vrata,

Upamāna: (baka-) vṛtti or (bak-) vṛata (lupta),

Sādhāraņa Dharma: ācaraņa (lupta)

Upamāvācaka: iva (lupta),

Note:—These stanzas above contain instances of triluptā Upamā where only the Upameya namely vrtti or vrata is mentioned. All other parts of the Upamā namely Upamāna, Sādhāraṇa Dharma and Upamāvācaka are lupta. The compound bakavratika or bakavrtti, in this case, is formed according to the Vārtika—'saptamyupamānapūrvapadasya bahuvrīhiruttarpadalopaśca' (mentioned in Kāvyaprakāśa of Mammaṭa).

The expression 'baidālvratika' in the two stanzas is also an instance of triluptā Upamā where too only the Upameya namely vrata is mentioned. See No. 148 below.

(146) बन्धु (and सम्पूज्यत्व)

If the eldest brother (behaves as an eldest brother (ought to do), he (must be treated) like a mother and like a father, but if he is ajyesthavrtti i.e. if he) behaves in a manner unworthy of an eldest brother, he should yet be honoured (merely) like a bandhu i.e. kinsman or relative (IX—110).

Upameya: ajyeşthavrtti jyeştha,

Upamāna: bandhu,

Sādhāraņa Dharma: sampujyaḥ,

Upamāvācaka: vat,

Note:—The first line contains a Mālopamā in the expressions 'mateva' & 'piteva' for which see Nos. 130 above and 164 below.

(147) बाह्य and बाह्यची with सूद्र see No. 154 below.

(148) विভাল (and সत)

Let him not honour, even by a greeting, heretics, men who follow forbidden occupations baidāla-vratika i.e. men who live like cats, (rogues, logicians (arguing against the Veda), and bakavrtti persons i.e. those who live like herons) (IV—30).

(A man) who knows the law should not offer even water to a Brāhmaṇa (dvija) who is baiḍālavratika i.e. who acts like a cat, (nor to a Brāhmaṇa who is bakavratika i.e. who acts like a heron, nor to one who is unacquainted with the Veda) (IV—192).

(A man) who, ever covetous, displays the flag of virtue, (who is) a hypocrite, a deceiver of the people, intent on doing injury, (and) a detractor (from the merits) of all men, one must know to be a baidālavratika i.e. one who acts like a cat, (IV—195).

Upameya: vrata,

Upamāna: (bai lāla-) vrata (lupta),

Sādhāraņa Dharma: ācaraņa (lupta),

Upamāvācaka: iva (lupta),

Note:—Here bidālasya idam is baidālam vratam. These stanzas above contain instances of triluptā Upamā where only the Upameya namely vrata is mentioned. All other parts of the Upamā are lupta. The compound baidālavratika, in this case, is formed according to the Vārtika—'saptamyupamānapūrvapadasya bahvrīhiruttarapadalopaśca', (mentioned in Kāvyaprakāśa of Mammaṭa).

The expressions 'bakavṛtti' in IV-30 and IV-192 respectively are also instances of triluptā Upamā.

See Nos. 145 and 145A above.

(149) स्कन्दितमार्षभ (बीज) (and मोघत्व)

If (one man's) bull were to beget a hundred calves on another cows, they would belong to the owner of the cows; in vain (mogha) would the bull have spent his strength i.e. skanditam ārṣabham i.e. bījām. Thus also is the seed of him who has no material property in women (akṣetrin) but sow their seed in the soil of others (parakṣetrapravāpin). They benefit the owner of the women (i.e. kṣetrin); but the giver of the seed reaps no advantage (IX—50, 51).

Upameya: aksetrinah paraksetrapravāpinah bījam,

Upamāna: skanditamārṣabham i.e. bījam,

Sādhāraṇa Dharma: moghatvam,

Upamāvācaka: tathā,

Note:—In verses 50-51, the real Upamā is given in 50 d and 51 ab, 50 d however expects a context of 50 a, b, c. In view of this, we may translate. 'In this manner the dropped seed (skandita) belonging to the bull (ārṣabha) becomes useless (mogha). In a similar manner, the seed of one who has no wife (akṣetrī), but sows it upon another man's wife becomes useless. Here tṣabha or vṛṣabha, which is the secondary Upamāna and which corresponds to parakṣetrapravāpin is indirectly mentioned through the taddhita form ārṣabham. In the Upameya-vākya we get two adjectives both in the genitive case (sing.) of the person who is the main Upameya. They are akṣetrin and parakṣetrapravāpin. Corresponding to the latter, we have anyagoṣu in verse 50 a (i.e. the Upamāna-vākya). But a similar adjective corresponding to akṣetrin does not seem to have been conceived by the poet in the case of vṛṣabha, the Upamāna.

The antecedent yathā is not used. In 51 c the author seems to supply bījinah in view of verse 52. In 51 ab, the existence of the word bījam shows that akṣetriṇah and parakṣetrapravāpiṇah are genitive cases and not nominative.

- (150) (शुभ) बीज and ऊपर see No. 47 above.
- (151) बीज and वप्तु and ईरिए

As a husbandman i.e. vaptā reaps no harvest when he has sown the seed i.e. bīja in barren soil i.e. īrina, even so the giver of sacrificial food gains no reward if he presents it (i.e. havis) to a man unacquainted with the Rks (III—142).

Upameya: dātr, havis and anrca (vipra),

Upamāna: vaptr, bīja and īriņa,

Sādhāraṇa Dharma: na labhate phalam,

Upamāvācaka: yathā—tathā,

Note:—The Upamā contains a triple Upamāna. Here irina and anre correspond with each other; but the former is in the locative case while the latter is in the dative in view of the roots connected with the two namely vap and dā which govern saptamī and caturthī respectively. As the Upamā is expressed with the help of two independent sentences, the Sādhāraṇa Dharma is repeated twice. The repetition is exact.

(152) ब्रह्मचारिन् (and स्वर्गगमन)

A virtuous wife who after the death of her husband constantly remains chaste, reaches heaven, though she have no son, just like brahmcārins i.e. chaste men (lit. celibate students) (V—160).

Upameya: sādhvī strī

Upamāna: brahmacāriņah,

Sādhāraṇa Dharma: aputratve api svargagamana,

Upamāvācaka: yathā,

Note:—There is disagreement in respect of both gender and number between the Upamāna brahmaċārinah and Upameya sādhvī strī. Here tathā which should have been used with the Upameya is dropped owing to the inversion of the usual order of the Upamāna and the Upameya. For such an omission of tathā see Nos. 53, 67, 123 above as well as No. 217 below.

(153) ब्रह्महत्या (and पापाबहत्व)

Falsely attributing to oneself high birth (anriam samutkarse), giving mischievous information to the king (regarding a crime) (rājagāmi paišunam), and falsely accusing one's teacher (guroḥ alikanirbandhaḥ), (are offences) equal to brahmahatyā i.e. slaying a Brāhmana (XI—55).

Upameyas: samutkarse anrta, rājagāmi paišuna and gurohalīkanirbandha,

Upamāna: brahmahatyā,

Sādhāraņa Dharma: pāpāvahatva (lupta),

Upamāvācaka: sama,

Note:—There is disagreement in point of gender between all of the Upameyas samutkarse anrtam, rājagāmi paišunam & guroḥ alīkanirbandha (which are neuter, neuter and masculine respectively) and the Upamāna brahmahatyā (which is feminine). Here many Upameyas are compared with a single Upamāna. For a similar Upamā see Nos. 60, 63, 66, 91 and 114 above. The Upamā is Ārthī Vākyagā Dharmaluptā. It is Dharmaluptā as the Dharma or the common property namely pāpāvahatva is not expressed. Rājagāmi paiśuna is a false mischievous information about a Brāhmaṇa (as is clear from the Simile), given to, the king and ending in Brāhmaṇa's punishment or death.

(154) ब्राह्मणी and बाह्म and श्रूड्र

Just as a Śūdra begets on a Brāhmaṇī i.e. Brāhmaṇa female a bāhya i.e. a being excluded (from the Āryan community), even so (a person himself) excluded (b āhya) procreates with (females of) the four castes (cāturvarṇye) (sons) more (worthy of being) excluded (than he himself i.e. bāhyatara) (X-30).

Upemeya: bāhya, cārurvarņya and bāhyatara,

Upamāna: Śūdra, brāhmaņī and bāhya,

Sādhāraṇa Dharma: prasūyate, Upamāvācaka: yathā—tathā,

Note:—This Upamā contains a triple Upamāna. Here cāturvarnye corresponds to brāhmanyām and stands for a female of any of the four castes. The neuter gender of cāturvarnya is used for want of a suitable feminine form.

(155) बाह्यणचरडाल (and पतितत्व)

But he who foolishly causes that (duty) to be performed by wives of other castes, when his wife of equal caste (sajāti) is alive, is declared by the ancients (to be) as (despicable) as a Brāhmaṇa-caṇḍāla i.e. a caṇḍāla (sprung from a) Brāhmaṇa female from a Śūdra (IX—87).

Upameya: yah bhartā,

Upamāna: Brāhmaņacaņdālah,

Sādhāraṇa Dharma: patitatva (lupta),

Upamāvācaka: yathā-tathā,

Note:—This is Śrautī Vākyagā Dharmaluptā Upamā. It is Dharmaluptā because here the Dharma or the common property namely patitatva is not expressed.

(156) भूमि (and सर्वहनन)

They declare (false evidence) concerning water (ap), concerning the enjoyment of women (strīnām bhoga), and concerning all gems (ratna), produced in water (abja), or consisting of stones (aśmamaya) (to be) equally (wicked) as a lie concerning bhūmi i.e. land (VIII—100).

Upameyas: (anrta) in the cases of āpah, strīnām bhoga and maithuna, abja and aśmamaya ratna,

Upamāna: (anṛta) in case of bhūmi,

Sādhāraṇa Dharma: sarvam hanti (from V-99),

Upamāvācaka: vat,

Note:—There is disagreement in point of gender between the Upameyas namely strīnām bhoga (masculine), maithunam (neuter) and abjesu sarvāsmamayesu ratnesu (neuter) and the Upamāna bhūmi (feminine). There is disagreement in respect of number also between Upamāna ratnesu (plural) and the Upameya bhūmi (singular). Here many Upameyas are compared with a single Upamāna. For a similar phenomenon see Nos. 60, 63, 66, 91 and 114 above. Really speaking, in this Upamā anrtam from V 99 is to be supplied. It serves as the real Upameya with the other words in the Locative case. The Sādhārana Dharma is to be supplied similarly from V-99 i.e. sarvam bhūmyanṛte hanti'.

(157) ` भृतक and निर्देश see No. 123 above.

(158) मत्स्य (and श्राहिंसन)

If the king did not, without tiring, inflict punishment on those worthy to be punished, the stronger would roast (apaksyan) the weaker like matsyas i.e. fish on a spit (śūle), or like fish in water (jale) (VII—20).

Upameya: durbala, Upamāna: matsya,

Sādhāraņa Dharma: pacana or āhimsana,

Upamāvācaka: iva,

Note:—Here matsyān is the Upamāna, durbalān the Upameya; and sūle apakṣyan is intended to be the Sādhāraṇa Dharma. It applies primarily to the Upamāna and only secondarily to the Upameya.

For the reading 'jale matsyānivāhimsyuh' both the adjectives balavattarāh and durbalān can be transferred to the Upamāna. In this case, jale becomes only a restrictive attributive of the Upamāna employed for making it suitable as an Upamāna in the present case.

- (159) मत्स्य i.e. सक्रएटकमत्स्याशन and अन्य See No. 11 above.
- · (160) मल and भातु see No. 113 above.
 - (161) महाहद and लोध्ट

As a loṣṭa i.e. clod of earth falling into a mahāḥṛda i.e. great lake is quickly dissolved, even so every sinful act is drowned in the threefold Veda (XI—263).

Upameya: trivṛt Veda and duścarita,

Upamāna: mahāhṛda and loṣṭa,

Sādhāraņa Dharma: viņāša or majjana,

Upamāvācaka: yathā-tathā,

Note:—This Upamā contains a double Upamāna. It involves a change of case owing to adoption of different expressions. The accusative and the word prāpya is used for the Upamāna while the locative having the same sense is used for the Upameya. The Sādhārana Dharma is here expressed in two synonymous words namely vinasyati and mojjati, in the two sentences.

(162) महिषी (and उत्पादकस्य प्रशामागित्वामाव) IX-48.

Upameya: anyānganā,

Upamāna: mahiṣī (belonging to others)
Sādhāraṇa Dharma: notpādakah prajābhāgī,

Upamāvācaka: yathā-tathā,

Note:-For the details of the Upamā see No. 9 above.

(163) मातृ (and वृत्ति)

Towards a sister of one's father and of one's mother and towards one's own elder sister, one must behave as towards mātr i.e. one's mother; (but) the mother is more venerable than they (II—133).

Upameyas: pituh bhaginī, mātuh bhaginī and jyāyasī svasā,

Upamāna: mātr,

Sādhāraņa Dharma: vrttimātisthet,

· Upamāvācaka: vat,

Note:—As vrttimātis thet governs the locative, the Upameyas put in the locative. Here also many Upameyas are compared.

with one single Upamana. Also see Nos. 60, 63, 66, 91 and 114 above.

(164) मातृ (and वृत्ति)

If the eldest brother (jyeṣtha) behaves as an eldest brother (ought to do) (jyeṣthavṛtti), he (must be treated) like mātṛ i.e. a mother (and like pitṛ i.e. a father; but if he behaves in a manner unworthy of an eldest brother, he should yet be honoured (merely) like a kinsman or relative i.e. bandhu) (IX—110).

Upameya: jyeşthavṛtti jyeştha,

Upamāna: mātṛ,

Sādhāraņa Dharma: vrtti (lupta),

Upamāvācaka: iva,

Note:—This is Śrautī Samāsagā Dharmalputā Upamā. It is Dharmaluptā because the Dharma or the common property namely vrtti (treatment) is not expressed.

The Upamā in piteva (see No. 130 above) makes the first line an instance of Mālopamā. Sampūjyastu bandhuvat in d contains another Upamā for which see No. 146 above.

(165) मानव and चन्द्र see No. 83 above.

(166) मारुत see No. 185 below.

(167) (चर्ममय) मृग (and नाममात्रधारण)

(As kāṣthamaya hastin i. e. an elephant made of wood) as carmamaya mrga i.e. a trussed up deer, such is an unlearned Brāhmana; those three have nothing but the names (of their kind) (II—157).

Upameya: anadhīyāna vipra,

Upamānas: (i) kāṣṭhamaya hastin and (ii) carmamaya mṛga, Sādhārana Dharma: nāma bibhrati,

Upamāvācaka: yathā,

Note:—This is Śrautī Vākyagā Mālopamā. Here anadhīyāna vipra is compared with two Upamānas namely kāṣṭhamaya hastin and carmamaya mṛga in respect of 'nāma bibhrati' which is the common property. Instead of tathā the poet uses the word yaśca in order to emphasize the Upameya namely the anadhīyāna vipra. The construction is anakoluthic. The poet begins with an Upamā with vipra as the Upameya and hastin and mṛga as the Upamānas; but instead of concluding it as an Upamā by using the word $tath\bar{a}$ in c he concludes by means of a Dipaka where the prakṛta vipra and the aprakṛta hastin and mṛga are connected with the common property namely nāma bibhrati. It seems that the word te has influenced the choice of the poet in using yah in place of $tath\bar{a}$.

- (168) मृग and मृगयु and अस्त्रपात see No. 22 above.
- (169) मृग and रात्रु

As satravali i.e. enemies do not hurt etān i.e. these (beings mṛgādīn-Kullūka, when they are) sheltered by (their) fortresses, even so foes (arayali) (can) not injure a king (nṛpa) who has taken refuge in his fort (VII—73).

Upameya: ari and nṛpa,

Upamāna: śatru and etān i.e. mṛgādīn,

Sādhārana Dharma:—na himsanti,

Upamāvācaka: yathā—tathā,

Note:—This Upamā contains a double Upamāna. The Upamāna etān is in the plural showing the six different kinds of beings mentioned in the last stanza namely mṛgagartāśrayāpsarāḥ and plavaṅgamanarāmarāḥ. Here the Sādhāraṇa Dharma is mentioned twice, once with the addition of the preposition upa in the Upamāna and secondly without it in the Upameya.

- (170) मृगयु and मृग and श्रस्त्रपात see No. 22 above.
- (171) यन्तु and वाजिन्

A wise man should strive to restrain his organs which run wild among alluring sensual objects like a yantā i.e. charioteer his vājinah i.e. horses (II—88).

Upameya: vidvān and indriyāņi,

Upamāna: yantā and vājinah,

Sādhāraņa Dharma: samyame yatnamātisthet,

Upamāvācaka: iva,

Note:—This Upamā also contains a double Upamāna. There is disagreement in respect of gender between the Upamāna vājinaḥ (masculine) and the corresponding Upameya indriyāṇi (neuter).

(172) यम (and नृत्ति)

Let the king, therefore, like yama not heading his own likings and dislikings, behave exactly like Yama i.e. with yāmyā vṛtti, supressing his anger and controlling himself (or lit. controlling his senses) (VIII—173).

Upameya: svāmin (rājan),

Upamāna: yama,

Sādhāraņa Dharma: yāmyā vṛtti,

Upamāvācaka: iva,

Note:—Here yāmyayā vṛttyā in c constitutes Padanidarśanā which itself, serves as the Sādhāraṇa Dharma of the Upamā expressed in a. The stanza thus becomes an instance of Sankara of Nidarśanā and Upamā.

(173) यम and प्रियद्गेष्यौ

As yama at the appointed time (prā le kāle) subjects to hisrule both priya and dvesya i.e. friend and foe, even so all subjects must be controlled by the king; that is yamavrata or the office in which he resembles Yama (IX—307).

Upameya: rājan and priyadvesyā prajā,

Upamāna: yama and priyadvesyau,

Sādhāraņa Dharma: prāpte kāle niyamana,

Upamāvācaka: yathā-tathā,

Note:—This Upamā contains a double Upamāna. There is active construction in the Upamāna-vākya and passive in the Upameya-vākya. So the two sentences become independent. Hence the double mention of the Sādhārana Dharma becomes necessary corresponding to priyadveṣyau in the Upamāna-vākya, an adjective priyadveṣyāh going with prajāh mut be supplied in the Upameya-vākya. There is disagreement in respect of gender between priyadveṣyau (masculine) the Upamāna and prajāh the Upameya.

'yamavratam' in d constitutes Nidarśanā, thus making the stanza an instance of Śankara of Upamā and Nidarśanā.

(174) रिमन् and आदित्य and तोय and समुद्र, see No. 28 above.

(175) रुक्मस्तेय (and पापावहत्व)

Stealing a deposit, or men, a horse and silver, (and) land, diamonds and (other) gems is declared to be equal to rukmasteya i.e. stealing the gold (of a Brāhmana) (XI—57).

Upameya: nikşepanarāşvarajatabh ūmivajramanīnām apaharanam,

Upamāna: rukmastevam,

Sādhārana Dharma: pāpāvahatva (lupta),

Upamāvācaka: sama,

Note:—This is Ārthī Samāsagā Dharmaluptā Upamā. is Dharmaluptā because here the dharma i.e. the common property namely pāpāvahatva is not expressed.

(176) लोध्ट (and चित्तौ उत्सर्जन) (IV-241)

Upameya: mṛta śarīra,

.Upamāna: losta,

Sādharaņa Dharma: kṣitau utsarjana,

Upamāvācaka: sama,

Note: -For the details of the Upama see No. 55 above.

(177) लोध्ट and महाहद See No. 161 above.

(178) बत्स and आंध

As the vāryokas i.e. leech, the vatsa i.e. calf and the satpada i.e. bee take their adya i.e. food little by little, even so must the king draw from his realm moderate annual taxes (VII-129).

Upameya: rājan and kara,

- Upamānas: (i) vatsa and ādya,
 - (ii) vāryokas and ādya,
 - (iii) satpada and ādya,

Sādhārana Dharma: alpādana or alpagrahana,

Upamāvācaka: yathā-tathā,

Note:—There is double Upamāna in this Mālopamā where the king receiving taxes (karas) is compared with a vāryokah (leach), a vatsa (calf) and a satpada (bee) receiving their food (ādya) bit by bit. But the Upamāna-vākya is put in the active construction while the Upameya-vākya is put in the passive. This makes the twice mention of the Sadharana Dharma necessary viz. adanti and grhitavyah. Here ādyam is neuter and kara is masculine. Hence disagreement in respect of gender between the two. Different constructions in the two Vakyas gives rise to the irregularity of adyam, the Upamana in the accusative and the kara the Upameya in the nominative. There is also corresponding irregularity between vāryokovatsasatpadāh and rājñā. The source of food of the leech etc. which corresponds to rāṣṭra in the Upameyavākya is not mentioned.

(179) बप्तृ and बीज and ईरिया see No. 151 above.

(180) वरुण (and वन्ध or निम्नह)

As (a sinner) is seen bound with ropes by Varuṇa, even so let him punish the wicked; that is his vāruṇa vrata i.e. office in which he resembles Varuṇa (IX—308).

Upameya: rājan from verse 307,

Upamāna: Varuna,

Sādhāraņa Dharma: nigraha,

Upamāvācaka: yathā-tathā,

Note:—The construction is passive in the Upamāna-vākya and active in the Upameya-vākya. Hence the Sādhāraṇa Dharma is expressed twice with the help of two different words viz. pāśaih baddha (in the Upamāna-vākya) and nigrhṇīyāt (in the Upameya-vākya). For an opposite construction see Nos. 173 above & 185 below. As the verse contains an advice to the king, the word expressive of common property going with the Upameya is put in the potential. Here pāśaih is mentioned in the Upamāna as it is the peculiar weapon of Varuṇa so that pāśaih baddah corresponds to nigrahah in the Upameya-vākya. In the simile, pāpah is to be supplied in the Upamāna-vākya from c d and the prākara-nika rājan (from verse 307) is to be supplied in the Upameya-vākya.

(181) बल्मीक and पुत्तिका see No. 134 above.

(182) विह्न see Nos. 6 and 7 above.

(183) वाजिन् and यन्तृ see No. 171 above.

(184) बायु (and अनुगमन)

For the manes attend the invited Brāhmaṇas, follow them (when they walk) like vāyu i.e. the wind, and sit near them when they are seated (III—189).

Upameya: pitarah, Upamāna: vāyu,

Sādhārana Dharma: anugacchanti,

Upamāvācaka: vat,

Note:—There is disagreement in respect of number between the Upamāna vāyu (which is singular) and the Upameya pitaraḥ (which is plural).

(185) वायु i.e. मारुत (and संचार)

As the Māruta i.e. the Wind moves (everywhere), entering (in the shape of the vital air) all created beings, even so let him penetrate (everywhere) through his spies; that is the mārutam vratam that is the office in which he resembles the Māruta or the Wind (IX—306).

Upameya: prākaraņika rājan,

Upamāna: Māruta,

Sādhāraņa Dharma: pravisya samcāra,

Upamāvācaka: yathā-tathā,

Note:—There is active construction in the Upamāna-vākya and passive in the Upameya-vākya. Hence the mention of the common property twice. As the verse contains an advice given to the king the word pravestavyam, expressive of the common property going with the Upameya, is evidently a potential passive participle. For an exactly opposite construction see No. 180 above. In the Upamāna there is nothing that corresponds to cāraih, which belongs only to the Upameya and establishes the correspondence between the Upamāna and the Upameya in sarvabhūtapraveša.

mārutam vratam in d contains a Nidarśanā thus making the stanza an instance of Sankara of Upamā and Nidarśanā.

(186) ৰাষু and বৃদ্ধ see No. 94 above.

(187) बार्ख see No. 227 below.

(188) नारि and नर see No. 120 above.

(189) वार्योकस् and आख VII—129.

Upameya: rājan and kara,

Upamāna: vāryokas and ādya,

Sādhārana Dharma: alpādana or alpagrahana,

Upamāvācaka—yathā-tathā,

Note:-For the details of the Upamā see No. 178 above.

(190). विप्र (and श्राद्धे श्ररान)

But if the (sacrificer's) father is living, he must offer (the cakes) to three remoter (ancestors); or he may also feed his father at the funeral sacrifice (śrāddha) as a vipra i.e. (one of the) Brāhmaṇa (guest) (III—220).

Upameya: pitr,

Upamāna: vipra,

Sādhāraņa Dharma: śrāddhe aśana,

Upamāvācaka: vat,

(191) विष (and उद्देग)

A Brāhmana should always dislike homage as if it were viṣa i.e. pioson (and constantly desire (to suffer) scorn as (he would long for) amṛta i.e. nectar) (II—162).

Upameya: sammāna,

Upamāna: vişa,

Sādhāraņa Dharma: udvijeta,

Upamāvācaka: iva,

Note:—There is disagreement in gender between the Upameya sammāna (masculine) and the Upamāna viṣam (neuter). amṛtasyeva cākāṅkṣet in c contains another independent Upamā for which see No. 13 above.

(192) बीरहत्या (and पापावहत्य)

A Brāhmana who, being an Agnihotrin, voluntarily neglects the sacred fires, shall perform a lunar penance for one month; for that (offence) is equal to vīrahatyā i.e. the slaughter of a warrior (XI—41).

Upameya: tat i.e. kāmakāratah agnīnamapavedha,

Upamāna: vīrahatyā,

Sādhārana Dharma: pāpāvahatva (lupta),

Upamāvācaka: sama,

Note:—There is disagreement in gender between the Upameya tat (neuter) and the Upamāna vīrahatyā (feminine).

This is Ārthī Samāsagā Dharmaluptā Upamā. It is Dharmaluptā because the Dharma i.e. the common property namely pāpāvahatva is not expressed.

(193) वृक (and अवलुम्पन) VII-106.

Upameya: prākaraņika rājan,

Upamāna: vṛka,

Sādhāraņa Dharma: avalumpana,

Upamāvācaka: vat,

Note:-For the details of the Upama see No. 144 above.

(194) वृक्ष i.e. (सिच्यमान) हुम (and वर्धन)

But if kingdom be secure, protected by the strength of his arms, it will constantly flourish like a druma i.e. tree which is being (well-)watered (sicyamāna) (IX—255).

Upameya: rāṣṭra,

Upamāna: (sicyamāna) druma,

Sādhāraṇa Dharma: nityam vardhate,

Upamāvācaka: iva,

Note:—The adjective sicyamāna of the Upamāna druma has its correspondence with the expression bāhubalāśritam in the Upameya viz. rāṣṭra, where the bāhubalāśraya is conceived as similar to seka or sprinkling (of the tree). There is disagreement in respect of gender between the Upamāna druma (which is masculine) and the Upameya rāṣṭra (which is neuter).

(195) वृद्ध and (नदी) कूल see No. 57 above.

(196) वृद्ध i.e. दुम and विह्न see No. 7 above.

(197) बृज्ञ and श्रुक्ति VI-8.

Upameya: prākaraņika yati and his deha,

Upamāna: śakuni and vṛkṣa,

Sādhāraņa Dharma: tyāga (tyajan),

Upamāvācaka: yathā—tathā,

Note:—This Upamā contains double Upamāna. For the details of the Upamā see No. 57 above.

(198) वैश्य (and शौचकल्प)

In case of Sūdras who live according to the law, there shall be the shaving (of their heads) each month; their mode of purification (śauca-kalpa) (shall be) the same as that of Vaiśyas, and their food the fragments of offal of an Āryan's meal (V—140).

Upameya: Śūdra, Upamāna: Vaiśya,

Sādhārana Dharma: śauca-kalpa,

Upamāvācaka: vat.

(199) शकुनि and বৃদ্ধ see No. 157 above as well as No. 197 above.

(200) राष्ट्र and मृग see No. 169 above.

(201) शरीरकर्षेण and प्राणिन् see No. 140 above.

(202) शश (and विनिष्पतन) VII 106.

Upameya: prākaraņika rājan,

Upamāna: śaśa,

Sādhāraņa Dharma: vinispatana,

Upamāvācaka: vat,

Note:—For the details of the Upamā see No. 144 above.

(203) शूद्र (and अनिभवाद्यत्व)

A Brāhmana (vipra) who does not know the form of returning a salutation, must not be saluted by a learned man; as a $S\bar{u}dra$ even so is he (II—126).

Upameya: abhivādanānabhijāa vipra.

Upamāna: Śūdra,

Sādhāraṇa Dharma: anabhivādyatva.

Upamāvācaka: yathā—tathā,

Note:—This simile incidentally indicates the position of the Śūdras in the society. The author of Manusmṛti, who is considered to be an avowed champion of Brahmanism, is only expected to recall such a simile. Also see Nos. 204, 205 and 206 below.

(204) श्रुद्र (and आचरण)

Brāhmaṇas who tend cattle, who trade, who are mechanics, actors or singers, menial servants or usurers, the (judge) shall treat like $S\bar{u}dras$ (VIII—102).

Upameya: gorakṣaka, vāṇijaka, kāru, kuśīlava, preṣya and vārdhuṣika viprāḥ,

Upamāna: Śūdrāḥ,

Sādhāraņa Dharma: ācaraņa,

Upamāvācaka: vat.

(205) सूद्र (and दएड्यत्व)

But even these two (ubhau), if they offend with a Brāhmaṇī (not only) guarded (but the wife of an eminent man), shall be punished like a $S\bar{u}dra$ or be burnt in a fire of dry grass (VIII—377).

Upameya: ubhau i.e. Vaiśyapārthivau committing adultery with a Brāhmaṇī,

Upamāna: Śūdra,

Sādhārana Dharma: dandyatva,

Upamāvācaka: vat.

(206) शुद्ध (and बहिष्कार्यत्व)

But he who does not (worship) standing in the morning

(pārva), nor sitting in the evening (paścima), shall be excluded (bahiṣkāryah) just like a Śudra, from all the duties and rights of a twice-born (II—103).

Upameya: yah i.e. a Brāhmaṇa who does not worship i.e perform adorations or sandhyā,

Upamāna: Śūdra,

Sādhāraņa Dharma: bahişkāryah,

Upamāvācaka: vat.

(207) ग्रुद्र and बाह्यणी and बाह्य see No. 154 above.

(208) श्मशान and पावक see No. 5 above.

(209) षटपद and आदा VII--129.

Upameya: rājan and kara,

Upamāna: ṣaṭpada and ādya,

Sādhāraņa Dharma: alpādana or alpagrahaņa,

Upamāvācaka: yatha—tathā,

Note:-For the details of the Upamā see No. 178 above.

(210) बग्रह and स्त्री.

As a sandha i.e. eunuch is unproductive (aphala) with striyah i.e. women, (as a gauh, i.e. cow with another gauh, i.e. cow is unprolific and a dāna i.e. gift made to ajña i.e. an ignorant man yields no reward) even so a Brāhmaṇa i.e. Vipra who is anrea i.e. who (does) not (know) Rks, is useless (aphala) (II—158).

Upameya: anrca vipra and śrautasmārta karma (lupta),

Upamāna: saṇdha and strī,

Sādhāraņa Dharma: aphalatva,

Upamāvācaka: yathā-tathā,

Note:—Here a double Upamāna is present. For the details of the Upamā see No. 10 above.

(211) समुद्र i.e. सागर and नदीनद see No. 119 above.

(212) समुद्र and निम्नगा

Whatever be the qualities of the man (bhartā lit. husband) with whom a woman (strī) is united according to the law, such qualities even she assumes, like nimnagā i.e. river (united) with samudra i.e. the ocean (IX—22).

Upameya: strī and bhartā,

Upamāna: nimnagā and samudra,

Sādhāraņa Dharma: sadṛśaguṇasampādana,

Upamāvācaka: iva,

Note:-This Upamā contains a double Upamāna.

(213) समुद्र and सिन्धुः

If, subduing love and hatred, he decides (pasyati lit. sees) the legal affairs (artha) according to the law, (the hearts of) his subjects turn towards him as the sindhavah i.e. rivers (run) towards samudra i.e. the ocean (VIII—175).

Upameya: prajā and sah i.e. prākaranika rājan,

Upamāna: sindhu and samudra,

Sādhāraņa Dharma: anuvartante,

Upamāvācaka: iva,

Note:--Here also a double Upamana is present.

- (213A) समुद्र and रश्मिन् and तोय and श्रादित्य see No. 28 above.
- (214) सहस्रांश see No. 29 above.
- (215) सागर and नदीनद see No. 119 above.
- (216) सिंह (and प्राक्रम)-VII-106.

Upameya: prākaraņika rājan,

Upamāna: simha,

Sādhāraṇa Dharma: parākramet,

Upamāvācaka: vat,

Note:-For the details of the Upamā see No. 144 above.

- (217) सिन्धु and समुद्र see No. 213 above.
- (218) सुकृतिन् (and स्वर्गगमन)

But men who have committed crimes and have been punished by kings, go to heaven, being pure like sukrtinah i.e. those who performed meritorious deeds (VIII—318).

Upameya: kṛtadaṇḍāḥ mānavāḥ,

Upamāna: sukṛtinaḥ,

Sādhārana Dharma: svargamāyānti,

Upamāvācaka: 'yathā,

Note:—Here tathā which should have come with the Upameya is dropped owing to the inversion of the usual order of Upamāna and Upameya. For a similar dropping of tathā see Nos. 53, 57, 123 and 152 above.

(219) सुद्धेत्र and सुवीज

As subīja i.e. good seed, springing up in suksetra i.e. good soil turns out (perfectly) well, even so the son (jātah) of an Āryan by an Āryan woman is samskārārha i.e. worthy of all the sacraments (X-69).

Upameya: Arya and Āryā, Upamāna: subīja and sukṣetra,

Sādhāraņa Dharma: samskārārhatva; sampannatva,

Upamāvācaka: yathā—tathā,

Note:—The Upamā contains a double Upamāna. Here su in subīja and sukṣetra is employed in order that they might correspond with the Upameyas Ārya and Āryā. One and the same common property is here conspicuous by its absence; but there is a correspondence between the two properties i.e. that of the Upamāna and Upameya (sampadyate and samskāramarhati). The fact is that here the Sādhārana Dharma is not really sādhārana or common; but similar. There is disagreement in case between subījam (accusative) and āryāt (ablative) and also there is disagreement in gender between sukṣetre (neuter) and āryām (feminine) and subījam (neuter) and āryāt (masculine).

(220) सुवीज and सुन्तेत्र see No. 219 above.

(221) सुरांपान (and पापावहत्व)

Forgetting the Veda, reviling the Vedas, giving false evidence, slaying a friend, eating forbidden food, or (swallowing substances) unfit for food, are six (offences) equal to surāpāna i.e. drinking Surā or wine (XI—56).

Upameyas: brahmojjhatā, vedanindā, kauṭa-sākṣyam, suhṛdvadhaḥ and garhitānādyayoḥ jagdhiḥ,

Upamāna: surāpānam,

Sādhāraņa Dharma: pāpāvahatva (lupta),

Upamāvācaka: sama,

Note:—Here many Upameyas are compared with a single Upamāna. For a similar comparison see Nos. 60, 63, 66, 91 and 114 above. There is disagreement in respect of gender between the Upameyas brahmojjhatā (feminine), vedanindā (feminine), suhrdvadhah (masculine), garhitānādyayoh jagdhih (feminine) and the Upamāna surāpānam (neuter). The Upamāna is Ārthī Samāsagā Dharmaluptā. It is Dharmaluptā because here the Sādhārana Dharma or the common property namely pāpāvahatva is not mentioned. This is, however, natural in a work on Dharmaśāstra.

(222) स्तेन see No. 92 above.

(223) स्त्री and प्राइ see No. 10 as well as 210 above.

(224) स्तुपा (and वृत्ति)

But when purpose of the appointment to (cohabit with) (niyogārtha) the widow has been attained in accordance with the law, those two shall behave towards each other like (guru i.e. father) and snuṣā i.e. a daughter-in-law (IX—62).

Upameya: vidhavā, Upamāna: snusā.

Sādhārana Dharma: vrtti (i.e. ācarana),

Upamāvācaka: vat,

Note:—The expression 'guruvat', in c contains another Upamāna which is a complement of this Upamā for which see No. 68 above.

(225) इंस (and गमन)

Let him wed a female free from bodily defects, who has an agreeable name, the (graceful) gait of a hamsa i.e. swan (or of vāraņa i.e. elephant), a moderate (quantity of) hair on the body and on the head, small teeth, and soft limbs (III—10).

Upameya: strī,

Upamāna: (i) hamsa,

(ii) vāraņa,

Sādhāraṇa Dharma: gamana,

Upamāvācaka: iva (lupta),

Note:—The Upamā is Śrautī Samāsagā Vādiluptā or Vācakaluptā. It is Vādiluptā because the Upamāvācaka iva is not expressed owing to the formation of the compound hamsavāraņagāminīm.

The vāraṇagāminīm part of the compound contains another Upamā where the strī is compared to vāraṇa in point of gamana or gait. This makes the compound an instance of Mālopamā where a strī is compared with a hamsa and a vāraṇa in point of graceful gait.

(226) हविस and कृष्णवत्मेन see No. 3 above.

(227) हस्तिन् i.e. वार्ण (and गमन) III-10

Upameya: strī,

Upamāna: vāraņa,

Sādhāraņa Dharma: gamana,

Upamāvācaka: iva (lupta),

Note:-For the details of the Upamā see No. 225 above.

(228) (काष्ठमय) हस्तिन् (and नाममात्रधारण) II-157.

Upameya: anadhīyāna vipra, Upamāna: kāṣṭhamaya hastin,

Sādhārana Dharma: nāma bibhrati,

Upamāvācaka: yathā,

Note: For the details of the Upamā see No. 167 above.

OTHER ALANKĀRAS

(A) Alankāras based on Aupamya.

(i) Atiśayokti

He who leaves his body (deha) (let it by necessity) as a vrkṣa i.e. tree (that is torn from) the nadīķūla i.e. river-bank, or (freely) like a śakuni i.e. bird (that quits a vrkṣa i.e. tree) is freed from the dreadful (krcchra) grāha i.e. shark (VI—78).

Upameya: samsārakaṣṭa, Upamāna: grāha,

Note:—Here krechra grāha stands for excessive troubles in the mundane existence or in this life i.e. in mṛtyuloka i.e. samsārakaṣṭa. As there is nigīrya adhyavasāna or swallowing of the Upameya namely samsārakaṣṭa by the Upamāna grāha, this is an instance of the figure Atiśayokti of the first kind which is defined by Mammaṭa as follows:—

'nigīryādhyavasānam tu prakṛtasya pareṇa yat'.

Also see No. 57 in the Similes in Chapter 3.

Apahnuti

Even an infant king must not be despised, (from an idea) that he is a (mere) mortal for he is a great devatā i.e. deity in human form (nararūpa) (VII—8).

Upameya: nara, Upamāna: devatā,

Note:—Here the naratva of the bhūmipa or the king is denied (niṣiddha) and the devatātva is established (sthāpita). Hence the figure is Apahnuti which is defined by Mammata as 'prakrtam yanniṣiddhyānyat sthāpyate sa tvapahnutiḥ'

(3) Dipakam

(a) अन्त्य and धर्म

He who possesses faith, may receive subhā i.e. pure vidyā i.e. learning even from an avara namely a man of a lower caste or class, the para i.e. highest Dharma i.e. law even from an antya namely the lowest and strīratna i.e. an excellent woman even from a duskula namely a base family (II—238).

Upameya: śubhā vidyā and avara,

Upamānas: (i) para Dharma and antya

(ii) strīratna and duskula,

Note:-This is an example of the figure Dipaka where two pairs of Upamanas are offered for a single pair of the Upameya. Here one common property namely ādadīta only once mentioned is connected with the prakrta (Upameya) viz, subhā vidyā and avara and the aprakṛtas (Upamānas) namely para Dharma and antya as well as strīratna and duskula. Hence this is Dīpakam of the first kind defined by Mammata as 'sakrdvrttistu dharmasya prakrtāprakrtātmanām'.

(b) अमत and तिष

Even from visa i.e. poison, amrta i.e. nectar can be taken even from a bāla i.e. a child, subhāṣitam i.e. good advice, even from an amitra i.e. an enemy, (a lesson in sadvrtta i.e. good conduct and even from amedhya i.e. an impure substance, kāñcana i.e. gold i.e. gold (may be accepted) (II-239).

Upameya: sadvrtta and amitra,

- Upamānas: (i) amrta and visa,
 - (ii) subhāṣita and bāla,
 - (iii) kāñcana and amedhya,

Note:-This verse occurs in the chapter dealing with the duties of a celibate student. Hence sadvṛtta that can be taken even from an amitra appears to be prakṛta i.e. the Upameya. It is connected with three pairs of aprakṛtas i.e. the Upamānas namely amrta and visa, subhāsita and bāla as well The common property is grāhyatva kāñcana and amedhya. expressed only once with the grahyam. Hence here also the figure is Dīpaka.

- श्रमेध्य and काञ्चन see No. (b) above.
- (d) काञ्चन and अमेध्य

Upameya: sadvrtta and amitra,

Upamāna: kāñcana and amedhya,

Note:-This is a Dipaka for the details of which see No. (b) above.

(e) दुष्कुल and स्त्रीरत्न

Upameya: śubhā vidyā and avara, Upamāna: strīratna and duskula,

Note:—This is also a Dīpaka for the details of which see No. (a) above.

(f) धर्म and ब्रान्त्य see No. (a) above.

(g) धर्म, शिल्प, शौच, सुभाषित and स्त्रीरत्न

Strīratnāni i.e. excellent wives, vidyā i.e. learning (the knowledge of) the Dharma i.e. Law, śaucam i.e. (rules of) purity, subhāṣitam i.e. good advice and śilpāni i.e. various arts may be acquired from anybody (II—240).

Upameya: vidyā

Upamānas: (i) Dharma, (ii) śilpa, (iii) śauca, (iv) subhāṣitam and (v) strīratnāni

Note:—Here one common property namely sarvatah samādeyāni is connected with the prakrta, the vidyā (which is thus the Upameya) and the aprakrta things namely Dharma, silpa, sauca, subhāṣitam and strīratnāni (which thus serve as Upamānas). Hence the figure in the verse is Dīpaka where there is sakrd vrtti of the dharma i.e. the common property between the prakrta and many aprakrta things.

- (h) वाल and सुभाषित see No. (b) above
- (i) विष and अमृत see No. (b) above
- (j) सुभाषित and बाल

Upameya: sadvṛtta and amitra

Upamāna: subhāṣita and bāla

Note:-This is a Dipaka for the details of which see No.

(b) above.

(k) स्त्रीरत्न and दुष्कुल see No. (a) above.

(4) Dṛṣṭānta

(a) नामग्रहण of कतकफल and वारि

To whatever order (āśrama) he may be attached, let him, though blemished (dūṣita) (by a want of the external marks), fulfil his duty (dharma), equal-minded towards all creatures; (for) the external mark of linga (of the order) is not the cause of (the acqisition of) merit (dharma). Though the fruit of the kataka tree i.e. Katakaphala (the clearing-nut) makes water clear, yet the (latter) i.e. vāri does not become limpid in consequences of nāmagrahaṇa i.e. mention of the (fruit's) name (VI—66-67).

Upameya: linga and dharma

Upamāna: nāmagrahaņa of Katakaphala and vāri,

Note:—The Upameya-vākya is in verse 66 and the Upamāna vakya in verse 67. The resemblance is as follows:

Mere external mark (linga) of a creed or a sect or an order does not lead to the generation of merit (dharma) just as the mere mention i.e. nāmagrahaṇa of a katakaphala (clearing-nut) does not purify water. Here the assumption of a linga corresponds to the nāmagrahaṇa and the performance of duties of the āśrama etc. corresponds to the Katakaphala. The figure is Dṛṣṭānta which is defined by Mammaṭa as 'dṛṣṭāntaḥ punareteṣām sarveṣām pratibimbanam'.

(b) भस्मन्

As tṛṇāgni i.e. fire of dry grass is (unable to consume the offerings and is quickly) extinguished; even so (is it with) an unlearned Brāhmaṇa; sacrificial food (havya) must not be given to him, never is (it offered in (bhasman) i.e. ashes (III—168).

Upameya: anadhiyāna Brāhmaṇa,

Upamāna: bhasman,

Note:—Here also we have Dṛṣtānta in cd, where the anadhīyāna Brāhmaṇa is compared with bhasman and the gift of a havya to him is compared with havana in bhasma, which proves to be of no use to one who offers it.

Also see No. 97 in the Similes in Chapter 3.

(c) रुधिर and असुग्दिग्ध हस्त

Food sacred to the manes (kavya) or to the gods (havya) must be given to a man distinguished by sacred knowledge (jñānotkṛṣṭa); for hands i.e. hasta sneared (digdha) with blood (asrk), cannot be cleansed with blood i.e. rudhira (II—132).

Upameya: ajña vipra and dātā,

Upamāna: rudhira and asṛkdigdha hasta,

Note:—This is Vaidharmyena Dṛṣṭānta. Here ignorant vipra is compared with rudhira or blood and the dātā or offerer to aṣṛkdigdha hasta or blood-stained hand. Both namely the dātā and aṣṛkdigdha hasta are, by themselves, impure. For purifying them, kavya-offerings given to an ignorant Brahmin and rudhira can evidently be of an avail. Hence the conclusion in a-b that the kavya or havya ought to be given to a learned Brahmin alone.

- (d) वारि and नामग्रह्या of कतकफल see No. (a) above.
- (e) असुन्दिग्ध इस्त and रुधिर see No. (c) above.
- Nidarśanā
 - (a) अन्नि (and नत)
- (If) he (i.e. the king) is ardent in wrath against criminals and endowed with brilliant evergy and destroys wicked vassals, then his vratam is said to be āgneyam i.e. his character is said to resemble that of Fire (IX—310).

Upameya: prākaraņika nṛpa,

Upamāna: agni

Note:—Here the king's vralam is said to agneyam. As one cannot follow the vrala of another, we have to understand an Upamā here, where the king is compared to Agni and his vrala similar to that of Agni. Hence the figure is Pada-Nidarśanā. Nidarśanā is defined by Mammata as 'abhavan vastusambandhaḥ upamāparikalpakaḥ'.

N.P. Also see No. 2 in the Similes in Chapter 3.

(b) अर्क (and ब्रत)

As āditya or the Sun during eight months (imperceptibly) draws up the water i.e. toys with his rays even so let him gradually draw his taxes from his kingdom; for that is arkavratam namely the office in which he resembles the son or Arka (IX—305).

Upameya: prākaranika nrpa,

Upamāna: arka,

Note:—Here the king or nrpa is advised to follow arkavrata. The connection between the two seems impossible as one cannot follow the vrata of another. In order to account for this we have to suppose arkavratam as arkavratasadrśam vratam. This leads to Upamā. Hence the figure is Nidarśanā which is defined by Mammata as 'abhavan vastusambandhah upamāparikalpakah'.

Also see No. 28 in the Similes in Chapter 3.

(c) इंन्द्र (and ब्रत)

As Indra sends copious rain during four months of the Rainy Season, even so let the king, taking upon himself the office of Indra i.e. indravrata, shower benefits on his kingdom (IX—304).

Upameya: prākaranika nrpa,

Upamāna: Indra

Note: Here also the king is said to accept the vrata of Indra. This is impossible. Hence we are to understand an Upamā where the king and his vrata is compared to Indra and his vrata. Hence the figure is Nidarśanā.

Also see No. 36 in the Similes in Chapter 3.

(d) चन्द्र (and দ্বর)

He is a king taking upon himself the vrata i.e. office of Candra i.e. the Moon, whose (appearance) his subjects (greet with as great joy) as men feel on seeing the full moon (IX—309).

Upameya: nṛpa Upamāna: candra

Note:—A nṛpa cannot be really cāndravratika. His vrata can at best be similar to that of candra. Thus there is paryavasāna in Upamā of nṛpa with candra. Hence the figure is again Nidar-sanā.

Also see No. 83 in the Similes, in Chapter 3.

(e) पृथ्वी (and ब्रत)

As dharā i.e. the earth supports all created beings equally, thus (a king) who supports all his subjects, (takes upon himself) the pārthivam vratam i.e. the office of Pṛthvī i.e. the Earth (IX—311).

Upameya: rājan Upamāna: pṛthvī.

Note:—Here also as the King is asked to observe the vrata of prthvi. As one cannot really hold the vrata of another, this leads to Upamā and hence the figure is Nidarśanā where pārthivam vratam bibhrat is understood as prthvīvratasya sadṛśam vratam bibhrat.

Also see No. 112 in the Similes in Chapter 3.

(f) प्लव (and) ब्रत

One who after accepting money from the wicked offers it to the good, makes himself a plava i.e. boat and saves both i.e. the wicked and the good (XI—19).

Upameya: ātman, Upamāna: plava.

Note:—Here the person is said to convert himself into a plava i.e. boat i.e. the saviour namely the cause of santarana in case of the wicked person whose wealth or money he has taken and has offered it to the good. As it is not possible to actually convert oneself into a plava, the figure here is a Nidarśanā ending in the comparison of ātman with a plava.

(g) बक (and ब्रत)

That Brāhmaṇa, who with downcast look, of a cruel disposition is solely intent upon attaining his own ends, dishonest and falsely gentle, is a bakavratacara i.e. one who observes the vow of a baka i.e. heron.

Those Vipras or Brāhmanas who are bakavratinah i.e. who act like herons and those who display the characteristics of cats, fall in consequence of that wicked mode of acting into (the hell) called Andhatamisra (IV—196-197).

Upameya: dvija or vipra,

Upamāna: baka.

Note:—Here the vipra or dvija is said to be a follower of the vrata of baka. As one cannot really follow the vrata of another, there is abhavan (impossible) vastusambandha and hence this constitutes a Nidarśanā, which ends in the comparison of Baka and the Vipra.

Aslo see Nos. 145 and 145 A in the Similes in Chapter 3.

(h) मारुत (and ब्रत)

As the Māruta i.e. the Wind moves (everywhere) entering (in the shape of the vital air) all created beings, even so let him penetrate (everywhere) through his spies. That is mārutam vratam i.e. the office in which he resembles the Māruta or the Wind (IX—306).

Upameya: prākaraņika nīpa or rājan,

Upamāna: māruta,

Note:—Here also the vrata of the king is said to be māruta. As it can be at best mārutasadrśa, the expression mārutam vratam contains a Nidarśanā which is upamāparikalpaka i.e. ending in the comparison of Māruta and the nrpa.

N.P. Also see No. 185 in the Similes in Chapter 3.

(i) मार्जीर (and लिक्र)

Those Brāhmaṇas or Vipras who observe the vow of a heron and those who are marjāralinginah i.e. who disaplay characteristics of cats, fall in consequence of that wicked mode of acting into (the hell) called Andhatamisra (IV—197).

Upameya: vipra, Ubamāna: mārjāra,

Note:—Here also vipras are styled as displaying the characteristics of cats. This is not possible. Hence we have to understand a simile here and say that the characteristics displayed by the vipras are similar to those of the mārjāra. Hence this is a Nidar-sanā ending in the comparison of vipras with mārjāras.

N.P. Also see No. 148 in the Similes in chapter 3.

(j) यम (and वृत्ति)

Let the prince or the king, therefore, like Yama not heading his own likings and dislikings adopt the behaviour of Yama i.e. yāmyā vṛtti, suppressing his anger and controlling himself. (VIII— 173).

Upameya: rājan, Upamāna: Yama,

Note:—Here also the king is asked to assume yāmyā vṛtti. As this not possible unless we understand yāmyā vṛtti as yamasadṛśā vṛtti, the figure here is Nidarśanā ending in the comparison of the king with Yama.

Also see No. 172 in the Similes in Chapter 3.

(k) यम (and नत)

As Yama at the appointed time subjects to his rule both namely the friends and foes (priyadvesyau), even so all subjects must be controlled by the king; that is (his) yamavrata i.e. office in which he resembles Yama (IX—307).

Upameya: rājan, Upamāna: Yama,

Note:—Here the vrata of the king which cannot be identical with yamavrata, is said to be so. This can be intelligible only on understanding similarity in the two vratas and thus leading to the comparison of the rājan and Yama. Hence the figure is Nidarśanā.

Also see No. 173 in the Similes in Chapter 3.

(1) वरुण (and न्रत)

As (a sinner) is seen bound with ropes by Varuna, even so let him punish the wicked, that is (his) vārunam vratam i.e. the office in which he resembles Varuna (IX—308).

Upameya: rājan from verse 307,

Upamāna: Varuņa

Note:—Here also the vrata of the king is said to be vāruņa. It can be varunavratasadrša. Hence the expression vāruņam vratam ends in Upamā of the king and Varuņa. Evidently the figure is Nidaršanā.

Also see No. 180 in the Similes in Chapter 3.

(6) Rūpaka

As a fire in one moment consumes with its bright lustre, the fuel that has been placed, on it, even so he who knows the Veda destroys all guilt by $j\tilde{n}\tilde{a}n\tilde{a}gni$ i.e. the fire of knowledge (XI—246).

Upameya: jñānam,

Upamāna: agni

Note:—Here the jñāna or knowledge is identified with agni i.e. fire as it burns or totally destroys all sins. As the abheda between jñāna and agni is intended, the figure is Rūpaka which is defined by Mammata as 'tadrūpakam abhedo ya upamānopameyayoh'.

N. P.-Also see No. 6 in the Similes in Chapter 3.

. B. Alankaras Independent of Aupamya

1. Kāvyalinga

One should not sit in a lonely place with one's mother, sister or daughter; the group of senses is powerful, and drag away i.e. master (even) a learned man (II—215).

Note:—Here cd convey the balavattva of the indrivas which is really the cause of the advice contained in ab namely a person should not sit with a mother etc., in a lonely place. The cause is not expressed with the help of the instrumental or ablative case as usual; but poetically making the whole sentence serve as a cause. Hence the figure is Kāvyalinga of the vākyaga variety. Kāvyalinga (poetical cause) is defined by Mammata as 'kāvyalingam hetorvākyapadārthatā'.

Săra:

Of created beings (bhūtāni) the most excellent are said to be those that are animated (prāninaḥ); of the animated, those which subsist by intelligence (buddhijīvinaḥ); of the intelligent, mankind or men (narāḥ); and of men the Brāhmaṇas;

Of Brāhmanas, those learned (vidvāmsah) (in the Veda), of the learned, those who recognises (the necessity and the manner of performing the prescribed duties) (krtabuddhayah); of those who possess this knowledge, those who perform them (kartārah); and of the performers, those who know the Brahman (brahmavedinah) (1-96-97).

Note:—Here the Alankāra is Sāra as there is uttarottaramutkarṣaḥ or the ascending scale of bhūtas, prānins, buddhijīvins, brāhmaṇas, vidvāns, kṛtabuddhis, kartṛs and brahmavedins; subsequent being higher than the previous and ending in brahmavedins which is the highest limit (parā avadhiḥ) in point of excellence. Sāra is defined by Mammaṭa as 'uttarottaramutkarṣaḥ bhavetsāraḥ barāvadhiḥ'.
